1. Key terms used in these FAQs

In these FAQs, we refer to information about you or information that identifies you as “personal data” or “personal information.” We use the term “processing” to collectively describe any action or operation involving personal data, including its collection, storage, organisation, analysis, review, transfer, and destruction.

2. Who is responsible for the personal data I submit to the PwC Ethics Helpline?

The data controller of personal data you provide to PwC Ethics Helpline is the PwC firm that is responsible for addressing or investigating the matter you have raised. This is usually the PwC firm where the incident took place or that is directly connected with the matter you have raised. A “data controller” has primary responsibility for ensuring that the handling of your personal data complies with data protection laws.

For a list of active client facing entities within the PwC network and countries and regions in which PwC member firms operate, see the links provided at the beginning of this PDF document.

In this document, “we,” “us” and “PwC” means the PwC firm that is responsible for addressing the matter raised and that is the data controller of your personal information.

3. Who can use the PwC Ethics Helpline?

PwC Ethics Helpline can be used by PwC workers (including PwC partners, directors, managers, employees, independent contractors, and contingent workers) and external stakeholders, such as business partners, clients, suppliers, and anyone who has interacted with PwC. These individuals may voluntarily contact PwC Ethics Helpline to ask a question or report a compliance concern relating to the business of the PwC Network as further specified below.

4. How do I contact the PwC Ethics Helpline?

There are two ways to contact PwC Ethics Helpline: by telephone and by Web.

PwC has contracted with an independent third party, NAVEX, to administer the Helpline. The tool provides 24-hour access. NAVEX specialists will receive reports submitted via the website or by phone and will route reports to appropriate PwC representatives for review.

5. What kinds of issues can I raise with the PwC Ethics Helpline?

PwC Ethics Helpline is for:

Reporting any conduct that you believe amounts to a serious: (1) violation of law or regulation; (2) violation of a PwC policy, standard or PwC’s Global Code of Conduct; or (3) unethical conduct.

Asking a question about any PwC policy, standard, or PwC’s Global Code of Conduct.

In certain countries, PwC may only accept reports relating to certain matters, such as financial, accounting, auditing, and bribery matters. If your concern pertains to a matter that under applicable legislation can’t be reported to PwC Ethics Helpline, the report will not be dealt with by PwC Ethics Helpline and you will be advised to report the matter directly to your local manager, partner, ethics team, or HC representative, as appropriate.

6. When should I use other reporting channels?

Consider if you can effectively raise the matter with someone directly at PwC through existing channels. If you don’t feel comfortable doing this, or do not know whom to contact, use PwC Ethics Helpline.

7. What if the information I provide turns out to be incorrect?

Realise that information you submit may result in decisions that affect other people. Therefore, you should submit information that you believe to be true. Under no circumstances will there be any reprisal against anyone who reports to PwC Ethics Helpline in good faith even if information later turns out to be untrue.

Acting maliciously or abusing PwC Ethics Helpline will never be tolerated and could result in disciplinary measures up to and including dismissal in appropriate cases.

8. Can I make a report anonymously?

We encourage you to identify yourself when making a report because this will assist us with investigating the report and protecting you in the long run. Your identity and the information you provide will be treated with the highest levels of confidentiality and disclosed strictly on a need-to-know basis.

If you make a report anonymously, we will review it. We cannot guarantee ongoing anonymity as the nature of the issue may, without fault on our part, subsequently naturally reveal the identities of people involved. This could happen, for example, if the case is particularly unique. Note that, for the majority of reports that have been submitted anonymously, we are not able to decipher the identity of the reporter.

Ultimately, we ask that you provide us with as much detail as you believe to be necessary to permit us to investigate the reported matter.

9. If I submit a report, is my identity protected?

Your identity will be treated with the highest levels of confidentiality and will only be shared with people who need access to this to investigate the report or who are part of legal proceedings.

We will not disclose your identity to the alleged wrongdoer. Please note that the exceptional situation where we may be required to do this is if you acted maliciously or deliberately abused the process, the accused raises a claim, and we must disclose your identity by law.

10. What personal data do you collect and why?

We collect the personal data you provide when making a report.

This may be:

- your name and relationship to PwC;
- identification details, function, contact details, behaviour, and other personal data of the person(s) involved in the reported concern; and
- identification details, function, contact details, and other personal data of individuals who have knowledge of the reported concern.

We may also collect personal data about you indirectly. This can be provided by other reporters, supervisors, case participants, and other authorised persons involved in investigations.

We use personal data only as necessary to conduct and conclude the investigation of the reported concern. We may also use the personal data if necessary, as part of related legal proceedings and to comply with our legal obligations (we may be required by law to report certain matters to appropriate external authorities).

11. Do not submit sensitive personal data unless it's necessary and relevant

We do not require submission of sensitive personal data through the PwC Ethics Helpline. Examples of this are race or ethnic origin, religious or other beliefs, political opinions, criminal record, physical or mental health, trade union membership, genetic or biometric data (when used to uniquely identify someone), and sexual life or orientation. However, we might receive sensitive personal data because you volunteer this as part of a report. We only use personal data as necessary to investigate a report and we will promptly delete any sensitive personal data that is not necessary to investigate a concern.

12. Site usage data that is collected automatically

PwC Ethics Helpline, provided by our third-party provider, NAVEX, automatically collects certain log data about visits to the website. This includes Internet Protocol address, browser type, browser language, and the date and time of your request. For further information, see NAVEX's privacy statement at the bottom of the PwC Ethics Helpline homepage.

13. What personal data do you record if I ask a question about PwC policies or standards?

You can contact the PwC Ethics Helpline to ask a question about any PwC policy, standard, or the PwC Global Code of Conduct.

We use personal data (typically name, job title, and email address) as necessary to correspond with you so that we can address your question. We do not keep records that attribute questions raised to particular individuals. The exception to this is if the matter concerns a suspected violation relating to the business of the PwC Network, which will be handled as described in the other sections of this document.

14. Must I provide personal data as a statutory or contractual requirement?

Providing personal data to PwC Ethics Helpline is voluntary and there is no statutory or contractual requirement to provide personal data. Contacting or reporting to the PwC Ethics Helpline is not mandatory.

15. What legal justification do you rely on to process personal data?

The data protection laws of some jurisdictions require that we set out in this document our justification, based on law, for collecting and processing your personal data.

We rely on our legitimate interests to process your personal data in connection with the PwC Ethics Helpline. Please note that where we rely on our legitimate interests to process your personal data, we have evaluated that your interests and fundamental rights do not override our legitimate interests.

In connection with the PwC Ethics Helpline, these legitimate interests are:

- our legitimate interests in allowing people to ask questions and report suspected serious violations to us in a confidential manner; and
- our legitimate interests in identifying, preventing and addressing violations of laws, our Code of Conduct, and our professional standards.

We do not intend to process sensitive personal data in connection with the PwC Ethics Helpline. To the extent we need to do this, the legal basis for such processing is that it is necessary for the purposes of carrying out the obligations and exercising specific rights of PwC in the field of employment, social security and social protection law, or that the processing is necessary for the establishment, exercise or defence of legal claims.

16. For how long do you keep my personal data?

We only keep personal data (i) for the period of time needed to investigate your report or (ii) as otherwise necessary in connection with disciplinary proceedings, legal proceedings (including appeals), or other investigation or inquiry.

If we determine that a report is unsubstantiated, we will securely delete the personal data associated with the unsubstantiated report as soon as practicable following this determination and in accordance with applicable law.

17. What are my rights in connection with my personal data?

Whether you make a report or are the subject of a report, if we hold or process personal data about you, you may have the following rights, as allowed by applicable data protection laws. We may delay or refuse requests if we believe granting access will jeopardise confidentiality or undermine our ability to investigate a reported concern.

You may be able to exercise the legal rights listed below.

- You may be able to obtain confirmation as to whether we process personal data about you, access a copy of your personal data and obtain certain other information, including why we process it and recipients of personal data.
- You may be able to request rectification of personal data if it is inaccurate, and have incomplete personal data completed.
- You may be able to request deletion or erasure of your personal data in the following cases:
 - the personal data is no longer necessary in relation to the purposes for which it was collected and processed;

- our legal ground for processing is that the processing is necessary for legitimate interests pursued by us, you object to the processing and we do not have overriding legitimate grounds;
- your personal data has been unlawfully processed; or
- your personal data must be erased to comply with a legal obligation to which we are subject.
- You may be able to restrict personal data processing in the following cases:
 - for a period enabling us to verify the accuracy of personal data where you have contested the accuracy of the personal data;
 - your personal data have been unlawfully processed and you request restriction of processing instead of deletion;
 - your personal data is no longer necessary in relation to the purposes for which it was collected and processed but the personal data is required by you to establish, exercise or defend legal claims; or
 - for a period enabling us to verify whether the legitimate grounds relied on by us override your interests where you have objected to processing based on it being necessary for the pursuit of a legitimate interest identified by us.
- You may be able to object to the processing of your personal data if our legal ground for processing is that the processing is necessary for a legitimate interest pursued by us.

You may have the right to lodge complaints about personal data handling with your local data protection regulator.

18. Which other parties could handle my personal data?

a. Other PwC Member Firms

We may share personal data with other PwC firms in the Network, but only if strictly necessary in connection with investigating a report.

b. Third Party Providers

We may disclose personal data to third party contractors, subcontractors, and/or their subsidiaries and affiliates.

Third parties support the PwC Network by providing and administering IT systems.

The third-party providers may use their own third-party subcontractors that have access to personal data (sub-processors).

It is our policy to use only third-party providers that are bound to maintain appropriate levels of security and confidentiality, to process personal data only as instructed by PwC, and to flow those same obligations down to their sub-processors.

c. Other recipients of personal data

 - your personal data must be erased to comply with a legal obligation to which we are subject.
- You may be able to restrict personal data processing in the following cases:

Ultimately, we ask that you provide us with as much detail as you believe to be necessary to permit us to investigate the reported matter.

9. If I submit a report, is my identity protected?

Your identity will be treated with the highest levels of confidentiality and will only be shared with people who need access to this to investigate the report or who are part of legal proceedings.

We will not disclose your identity to the alleged wrongdoer. Please note that the exceptional situation where we may be required to do this is if you acted maliciously or deliberately abused the process, the accused raises a claim, and we must disclose your identity by law.

10. What personal data do you collect and why?

We collect the personal data you provide when making a report.

This may be:

- your name and relationship to PwC;

- identification details, function, contact details, behaviour, and other personal data of the person(s) involved in the reported concern; and
- identification details, function, contact details, and other personal data of individuals who have knowledge of the reported concern.

We may also collect personal data about you indirectly. This can be provided by other reporters, supervisors, case participants, and other authorised persons involved in investigations.

We use personal data only as necessary to conduct and conclude the investigation of the reported concern. We may also use the personal data if necessary, as part of related legal proceedings and to comply with our legal obligations (we may be required by law to report certain matters to appropriate external authorities).

11. Do not submit sensitive personal data unless it's necessary and relevant

We do not require submission of sensitive personal data through the PwC Ethics Helpline. Examples of this are race or ethnic origin, religious or other beliefs, political opinions, criminal record, physical or mental health, trade union membership, genetic or biometric data (when used to uniquely identify someone), and sexual life or orientation. However, we might receive sensitive personal data because you volunteer this as part of a report. We only use personal data as necessary to investigate a report and we will promptly delete any sensitive personal data that is not necessary to investigate a concern.

12. Site usage data that is collected automatically

PwC Ethics Helpline, provided by our third-party provider, NAVEX, automatically collects certain log data about visits to the website. This includes Internet Protocol address, browser type, browser language, and the date and time of your request. This log data is used to improve the operation of PwC Ethics Helpline and is not tied to you personally. For further information, see NAVEX's privacy statement at the bottom of the PwC Ethics Helpline homepage.

13. What personal data do you record if I ask a question about PwC policies or standards?

You can contact the PwC Ethics Helpline to ask a question about any PwC policy, standard, or the PwC Global Code of Conduct.

We use personal data (typically name, job title, and email address) as necessary to correspond with you so that we can address your question. We do not keep records that attribute questions raised to particular individuals. The exception to this is if the matter concerns a suspected violation relating to the business of the PwC Network, which will be handled as described in the other sections of this document.

14. Must I provide personal data as a statutory or contractual requirement?

Providing personal data to PwC Ethics Helpline is voluntary and there is no statutory or contractual requirement to provide personal data. Contacting or reporting to the PwC Ethics Helpline is not mandatory.

15. What legal justification do you rely on to process personal data?

The data protection laws of some jurisdictions require that we set out in this document our justification, based on law, for collecting and processing your personal data.

We rely on our legitimate interests to process your personal data in connection with the PwC Ethics Helpline. Please note that where we rely on our legitimate interests to process your personal data, we have evaluated that your interests and fundamental rights do not override our legitimate interests.

In connection with the PwC Ethics Helpline, these legitimate interests are:

- our legitimate interests in allowing people to ask questions and report suspected serious violations to us in a confidential manner; and
- our legitimate interests in identifying, preventing and addressing violations of laws, our Code of Conduct, and our professional standards.

We do not intend to process sensitive personal data in connection with the PwC Ethics Helpline. To the extent we need to do this, the legal basis for such processing is that it is necessary for the purposes of carrying out the obligations and exercising specific rights of PwC in the field of employment, social security and social protection law, or that the processing is necessary for the establishment, exercise or defence of legal claims.

16. For how long do you keep my personal data?

We only keep personal data (i) for the period of time needed to investigate your report or (ii) as otherwise necessary in connection with disciplinary proceedings, legal proceedings (including appeals), or other investigation or inquiry.

If we determine that a report is unsubstantiated, we will securely delete the personal data associated with the unsubstantiated report as soon as practicable following this determination and in accordance with applicable law.

17. What are my rights in connection with my personal data?

Whether you make a report or are the subject of a report, if we hold or process personal data about you, you may have the following rights, as allowed by applicable data protection laws. We may delay or refuse requests if we believe granting access will jeopardise confidentiality or undermine our ability to investigate a reported concern.

You may be able to exercise the legal rights listed below.

- You may be able to obtain confirmation as to whether we process personal data about you, access a copy of your personal data and obtain certain other information, including why we process it and recipients of personal data.
- You may be able to request rectification of personal data if it is inaccurate, and have incomplete personal data completed.
- You may be able to request deletion or erasure of your personal data in the following cases:
 - the personal data is no longer necessary in relation to the purposes for which it was collected and processed;
 - our legal ground for processing is that the processing is necessary for legitimate interests pursued by us, you object to the processing and we do not have overriding legitimate grounds;
 - your personal data has been unlawfully processed; or
 - your personal data must be erased to comply with a legal obligation to which we are subject.
- You may be able to restrict personal data processing in the following cases:
 - for a period enabling us to verify the accuracy of personal data where you have contested the accuracy of the personal data;
 - your personal data have been unlawfully processed and you request restriction of processing instead of deletion;
 - your personal data is no longer necessary in relation to the purposes for which it was collected and processed but the personal data is required by you to establish, exercise or defend legal claims; or
 - for a period enabling us to verify whether the legitimate grounds relied on by us override your interests where you have objected to processing based on it being necessary for the pursuit of a legitimate interest identified by us.
- You may be able to object to the processing of your personal data if our legal ground for processing is that the processing is necessary for a legitimate interest pursued by us.

You may have the right to lodge complaints about personal data handling with your local data protection regulator.

18. Which other parties could handle my personal data?

a. Other PwC Member Firms

We may share personal data with other PwC firms in the Network, but only if strictly necessary in connection with investigating a report.

b. Third Party Providers

We may disclose personal data to third party contractors, subcontractors, and/or their subsidiaries and affiliates. Third parties support the PwC Network by providing and administering IT systems.

The third-party providers may use their own third-party subcontractors that have access to personal data (sub-processors).

It is our policy to use only third-party providers that are bound to maintain appropriate levels of security and confidentiality, to process personal data only as instructed by PwC, and to flow those same obligations down to their sub-processors.

c. Other recipients of personal data

We may also disclose personal data to:

- professional advisers, for example, law firms, as necessary to establish, exercise or defend our legal rights and obtain advice; and
- law enforcement, government authorities, and regulatory bodies, as required by and in accordance with applicable laws.

19. Transfers of Personal Data from the European Economic Area

If we process your personal data, your personal data may be transmitted outside the country where you are located, including for storage. This includes countries outside the European Economic Area (EEA). Recipient countries may not have laws that provide specific protection for personal data.

If we collect your personal data within the European Economic Area, transfer outside the European Economic Area will be only:

- to a recipient in a location which provides an adequate level of protection for your personal data; and/or
- under an agreement which satisfies EU requirements for the transfer of personal data to data processors or data controllers outside the EEA, such as standard contractual clauses approved by the European Commission.

Our approach if the United Kingdom exits the European Union or European Economic Area: we already apply, and will continue to apply, the controls described above if personal data collected within the United Kingdom is transferred outside the United Kingdom.

20. Children

PwC Ethics Helpline is not directed at, and should not be used by, anyone below the age of 18 years.

21. Contact points for questions and exercising legal rights

You can:

- submit a request if you wish to exercise a legal right in relation to your personal data; and/or
- submit an enquiry if you have a question about PwC's handling of your personal data.

1. De belangrijkste termen die in deze FAQ's gebruikt worden

In deze FAQ's verwijzen we naar informatie over u of informatie die u als “persoonsgegevens” of “persoonlijke informatie” identificeert. We gebruiken de term “verwerking” als verzamelnaam om te verwijzen naar elke handeling of verrichting die gepaard gaat met persoonsgegevens, met inbegrip van het verzamelen, opslaan, organiseren, analyseren, herzien, doorgeven en vernietigen van persoonsgegevens.

2. Wie is verantwoordelijk voor de persoonsgegevens die ik aan de PwC Ethics Helpline bezorg?

De verwerkingsverantwoordelijke van de persoonsgegevens die u aan de PwC Ethics Helpline bezorgt, is de PwC-entiteit die instaat voor het behandelen of onderzoeken van de door u aangekaarte kwestie. Doorgaans is dit de PwC-firma waar het voorval zich heeft voorgedaan of die een rechtstreekse band heeft met de door u onder de aandacht gebrachte kwestie. Een “verwerkingsverantwoordelijke” heeft de hoofdverantwoordelijkheid voor het verzekeren dat bij de behandeling van uw persoonsgegevens de wetgeving inzake gegevensbescherming wordt gerespecteerd.

Voor een lijst van actieve, rechtstreeks met klanten in contact komende entiteiten binnen het PwC-netwerk evenals van landen en regio's waar PwC-entiteiten actief zijn, verwijzen we naar de links aan het begin van dit PDF-document.

In dit document verwijst “we”, “ons”, “onze” en “PwC” naar de PwC-entiteit die verantwoordelijk is voor het behandelen van de door u onder de aandacht gebrachte kwestie; dat is de verwerkingsverantwoordelijke van uw persoonlijke informatie.

3. Wie kan gebruik maken van de PwC Ethics Helpline?

De PwC Ethics Helpline kan worden gebruikt door medewerkers van PwC (daarin begrepen Partners, Directors en Managers evenals werknemers, zelfstandige medecontractanten en tijdelijke werknemers) en externe belanghebbenden, zoals zakenpartners, klanten en leveranciers alsook iedereen die enige vorm van interactie met PwC heeft. Deze personen kunnen op eigen initiatief de PwC Ethics Helpline contacteren om een vraag te stellen of een met compliance verband houdende kwestie te melden voor zover zulk een vraag of kwestie verband houdt met de activiteiten van het PwC-netwerk, zoals hierna nader wordt toegelicht.

4. Hoe contacteer ik de PwC Ethics Helpline?

Er zijn twee manieren om de PwC Ethics Helpline te contacteren: telefonisch en online.

PwC heeft een onafhankelijke derde, NAVEX, ingeschakeld om de hulplijn te beheren. De tool is 24 uur per dag toegankelijk. NAVEX-experts zullen de melding die u via de website of telefonisch doet in ontvangst nemen en deze doorsturen naar de relevante PwC-vertegenwoordigers, die ze kritisch zullen bekijken.

5. Met welke soorten kwesties kan ik terecht bij de PwC Ethics Helpline?

De PwC Ethics Helpline is er voor:

Het melden van gedrag waarvan u vindt dat het (1) een ernstige overtreding van wetgeving of reglementering is; (2) een ernstige niet-naleving is van hetzij een door PwC toegepaste beleidslijn of norm hetzij PwC's wereldwijde gedragscode; of (3) een ernstige vorm van onethisch gedrag is.

Het stellen van een vraag over hetzij een door PwC toegepaste beleidslijn of norm hetzij PwC's wereldwijde gedragscode.

In bepaalde landen zal PwC alleen meldingen aanvaarden die betrekking hebben op welbepaalde materie, bij voorbeeld in verband met financiële of boekhoudkundige/revisorale aspecten en omkoping. als de kwestie die u wil melden te maken heeft met iets dat ingevolge toepasselijke wetgeving niet aan de PwC Ethics Helpline kan worden doorgegeven, dan zal de melding niet door de PwC Ethics Helpline worden behandeld en zal u worden aangeraden de kwestie rechtstreeks te melden aan, naargelang het geval, uw plaatselijke manager, Partner, Ethics team-medewerker of HC-vertegenwoordiger.

6. Wanneer maak ik best gebruik van andere meldingskanalen?

Bekijk eerst of u de kwestie rechtstreeks bij iemand van PwC onder de aandacht kunt brengen via een bestaand kanaal. Voelt u zich hier niet gemakkelijk bij, of weet u niet tot wie u zich zou moeten wenden, gebruik dan de PwC Ethics Helpline.

7. Wat als de informatie die ik geef uiteindelijk onjuist blijkt te zijn?

Besef dat informatie die u bezorgt, kan leiden tot beslissingen die een invloed hebben op andere mensen. Geef dan ook alleen maar informatie door die volgens u juist is. Er zal hoe dan ook geen negatieve weerslag zijn op iemand die te goeder trouw iets aan de PwC Ethics Helpline meldt, ook niet als die informatie achteraf onjuist blijkt te zijn.

Dat iemand te kwader trouw handelt of misbruik van de PwC Ethics Helpline maakt, zal nooit worden geduld en kan resulteren in tuchtmaatregelen, inclusief ontslag als daar voldoende grond voor is.

8. Kan ik iets anoniem melden?

We moedigen u aan bij het melden uw identiteit bekend te maken omdat dit ons zal helpen om de gemelde kwestie te onderzoeken en om u op lange termijn te beschermen. Uw identiteit en de informatie die u bezorgt, zullen uiterst vertrouwelijk worden behandeld en slechts voor zover strikt noodzakelijk is met anderen worden gedeeld.

Als u anoniem een kwestie meldt, dan zullen we uw melding kritisch bekijken. Blijvende anonimiteit kunnen we niet garanderen omdat de mogelijkheid bestaat dat door de aard van de zaak, zonder ons toedoen, de identiteit van de betrokkene(n) vanzelf aan het licht komt. Dit kan zich bijvoorbeeld voordoen als het een bijzonder uniek geval betreft. Merk op dat voor het merendeel van de meldingen die anoniem gedaan worden, we de identiteit van de persoon die de melding doet niet kunnen achterhalen.

Tot slot vragen we u ons zulke gedetailleerde informatie te bezorgen als u noodzakelijk acht om ons in staat te stellen om de gemelde kwestie te onderzoeken.

9. Is mijn identiteit beschermd als ik iets meld?

Uw identiteit zal als uiterst vertrouwelijk worden behandeld en zal alleen worden gedeeld met mensen die ervan op de hoogte moeten zijn om de melding te kunnen onderzoeken of die bij een gerechtelijke procedure betrokken zijn.

We zullen uw identiteit niet bekendmaken aan de vermeende dader. Merk op dat de uitzonderlijke situatie waarin we mogelijk verplicht zijn om uw identiteit bekend te maken de situatie is waarin u te kwader trouw hebt gehandeld of bewust misbruik van de procedure hebt gemaakt, waarna de beschuldigde een vordering instelt en we wettelijk verplicht zijn om uw identiteit bekend te maken.

10. Welke persoonsgegevens verzamelen jullie en waarom?

We verzamelen de persoonsgegevens die u bij het melden van een kwestie bezorgt.

Dit betreft onder andere:

- uw naam en relatie met PwC;
- identificatiegegevens, functie, contactgegevens, gedrag en andere persoonsgegevens van de persoon/personen die bij de gemelde kwestie betrokken zijn; en
- identificatiegegevens, functie, contactgegevens en andere persoonsgegevens van de persoon/personen die van de gemelde kwestie weet hebben.

Het kan ook voorkomen dat we onrechtstreeks persoonsgegevens over u verzamelen. Dergelijke informatie kan afkomstig zijn van andere personen die iets melden, toezichthoudende of bij het dossier betrokken medewerkers alsook andere bevoegde mensen die bij onderzoeken betrokken zijn.

We gebruiken persoonsgegevens slechts voor zover dit noodzakelijk is om het onderzoek met betrekking tot de gemelde kwestie te voeren en voltooien. Mogelijk gebruiken we ook persoonsgegevens als dit noodzakelijk is, als onderdeel van een ermee verband houdende gerechtelijke procedure en om onze wettelijke verplichtingen na te komen (mogelijk zijn we wettelijk verplicht om bepaalde zaken aan de bevoegde overheidsinstanties te melden).

11. Verstrek geen gevoelige persoonsgegevens tenzij het noodzakelijk en relevant is

We vragen u niet om via de PwC Ethics Helpline gevoelige persoonsgegevens te verstrekken. Voorbeelden hiervan zijn ras of etnische afkomst, religieuze, politieke of andere levensbeschouwelijke overtuiging, strafrechtelijke veroordelingen, lichamelijke of geestelijke gezondheid, lidmaatschap van een vakbond, genetische of biometrische gegevens (voor eenduidige identificatie van natuurlijke personen) en seksueel gedrag of seksuele gerichtheid. We kunnen evenwel gevoelige persoonsgegevens ontvangen omdat u deze als onderdeel van een melding vrijwillig meedeelt. We gebruiken persoonsgegevens slechts voor zover dit noodzakelijk is om een melding te onderzoeken; eventuele gevoelige persoonsgegevens die voor het voeren van een onderzoek niet noodzakelijk zijn, zullen we onmiddellijk vernietigen.

12. Automatisch verzamelde gegevens over het gebruik van de website

De PwC Ethics Helpline, die u door onze onafhankelijke dienstenleverancier NAVEX ter beschikking wordt gesteld, verzamelt automatisch bepaalde loggegevens over bezoeken aan de website. Dit betreft onder meer het IP-adres, het browsertype, de browsertaal en de datum en het tijdstip van inloggen. Deze loggegevens worden gebruikt om de werking van de PwC Ethics Helpline te verbeteren en worden niet aan u persoonlijk gekoppeld. Voor meer informatie hierover verwijzen we naar de verklaring inzake de bescherming van persoonsgegevens (privacy) van NAVEX onderaan op de startpagina van de website van de PwC Ethics Helpline.

13. Welke persoonsgegevens houden jullie bij als ik een vraag stel in verband met PwC-beleidslijnen of -normen?

U kunt de PwC Ethics Helpline contacteren om een vraag te stellen over hetzij een door PwC toegepaste beleidslijn of norm hetzij PwC's wereldwijde gedragscode.

We gebruiken persoonsgegevens (doorgaans naam, functiebenaming en e-mailadres) voor zover dit noodzakelijk is om met u te communiceren zodat we uw vraag in behandeling kunnen nemen. We houden geen gegevens bij waarmee gestelde vragen aan bepaalde personen zouden worden gekoppeld. De uitzondering hierop is de situatie waarin de kwestie betrekking heeft op een vermoede overtreding in verband met de door het PwC-netwerk gevoerde activiteiten; een dergelijke aangelegenheid zal worden behandeld zoals in de overige delen van dit document is beschreven.

14. Ben ik wettelijk of contractueel verplicht om mijn persoonsgegevens te bezorgen?

Het verstrekken van persoonsgegevens aan de PwC Ethics Helpline gebeurt op vrijwillige basis en er is geen wettelijke of contractuele verplichting om persoonsgegevens te verstrekken. Contact opnemen met of overgaan tot een melding aan de PwC Ethics Helpline is niet wettelijk verplicht.

15. Op welke rechtsgrond steunen jullie om mijn persoonsgegevens te verwerken?

Ingevolge de wetgeving inzake gegevensbescherming die in bepaalde jurisdicties geldt, zijn we verplicht om in dit document onze op wetgeving gebaseerde verantwoording voor het verzamelen en verwerken van uw persoonsgegevens op te nemen.

Om uw persoonsgegevens in verband met de PwC Ethics Helpline te verwerken, steunen we op onze gerechtvaardigde belangen. Merk op dat, in het geval dat we om uw persoonsgegevens te verwerken onze gerechtvaardigde belangen inroepen, we zijn nagegaan dat uw belangen en basisrechten niet primeren op onze gerechtvaardigde belangen.

In verband met de PwC Ethics Helpline omvatten deze gerechtvaardigde belangen het volgende:

- onze gerechtvaardigde belangen die erin bestaan mensen de mogelijkheid te geven om op vertrouwelijke wijze ons vragen te stellen en vermoede ernstige overtredingen te melden; en
- onze gerechtvaardigde belangen die erin bestaan schendingen van wetgeving, onze gedragscode en onze beroepsnormen vast te stellen, te voorkomen en aan te pakken.

We zijn niet van plan om gevoelige persoonsgegevens in verband met de PwC Ethics Helpline te verwerken. Voor zover hiertoe een noodzaak bestaat, is de rechtsgrond voor zulk een verwerking dat ze noodzakelijk is voor het nakomen van de verplichtingen en het uitoefenen van specifieke rechten van PwC op het vlak van arbeids-, socialezekerheids- en socialebeschermingswetgeving, of dat de verwerking noodzakelijk is voor het formuleren, uitoefenen of verdedigen van een rechtsvordering.

16. Hoelang houden jullie mijn persoonsgegevens bij?

We houden persoonsgegevens slechts bij (i) zo lang als nodig is om uw melding te onderzoeken of (ii) zoals anderszins noodzakelijk is in het kader van een tuchtprocedure, een gerechtelijke procedure (met inbegrip van een beroepsprocedure) of een ander onderzoek.

Als we vaststellen dat een melding onvoldoende onderbouwd/ongegrond is, zullen we, zodra we deze vaststelling hebben gedaan en zo snel als praktisch mogelijk is, de persoonsgegevens die met de onvoldoende onderbouwde/ongegronde melding verband houden op veilige wijze en in overeenstemming met toepasselijke wetgeving vernietigen.

17. Welke rechten heb ik in verband met mijn persoonsgegevens?

Of u nu zelf iets meldt dan wel het voorwerp van een melding bent, als we persoonsgegevens over u hebben of verwerken, hebt u mogelijk de volgende rechten, naargelang door toepasselijke wetgeving inzake gegevensbescherming is toegestaan. Mogelijk stellen we verzoeken uit of weigeren we verzoeken als het verlenen van toegang naar onze mening de vertrouwelijkheid in gevaar zal brengen of ons zal hinderen in het onderzoeken van een gemelde kwestie.

Mogelijk kunt u de hieronder vermelde wettelijke rechten uitoefenen:

- U kunt bevestiging verkrijgen over de vraag of we persoonsgegevens over u verwerken, inzage in een kopie van uw persoonsgegevens krijgen en bepaalde andere informatie bekomen, zoals waarom we de persoonsgegevens verwerken en welke personen de persoonsgegevens ontvangen.
- U kunt verzoeken om een rectificatie van onjuiste persoonsgegevens en een vervollediging van onvolledige persoonsgegevens.
- U kunt verzoeken om het vernietigen of wissen van uw persoonsgegevens in de volgende gevallen:
 - de persoonsgegevens zijn niet langer noodzakelijk gezien de doeleinden waarvoor ze verzameld en verwerkt werden;
 - onze rechtsgrond voor verwerking is dat de verwerking noodzakelijk is voor door ons nagestreefde gerechtvaardigde belangen, u verzet zich tegen de verwerking en we hebben geen rechtsgrond die primeert;
 - uw persoonsgegevens zijn onrechtmatig verwerkt; of
 - uw persoonsgegevens moeten worden gewist om aan een op ons rustende wettelijke verplichting te voldoen.
- U kunt verzoeken om een beperking van de verwerking van persoonsgegevens in de volgende gevallen:
 - gedurende een periode die voor ons volstaat om de juistheid van persoonsgegevens te verifiëren in het geval dat u de juistheid van de persoonsgegevens hebt betwist;
 - uw persoonsgegevens zijn onrechtmatig verwerkt en u verzoekt om een beperking van verwerking in plaats van vernietiging;
 - uw persoonsgegevens zijn niet langer noodzakelijk gezien de doeleinden waarvoor ze verzameld en verwerkt werden maar u hebt de persoonsgegevens nodig om een rechtsovereenkomst te formuleren, uit te oefenen of te verdedigen; of
 - gedurende een periode die voor ons volstaat om te verifiëren of de rechtsgrond waarop we steunen, primeert op uw belangen in het geval dat u zich hebt verzet tegen verwerking op basis van noodzakelijkheid voor een door ons nagestreefd gerechtvaardigd belang.
- U kunt zich tegen de verwerking van uw persoonsgegevens verzetten als onze rechtsgrond voor verwerking is dat de verwerking noodzakelijk is voor een door ons nagestreefd gerechtvaardigd belang.

Mogelijk hebt u het recht om bij uw plaatselijke toezichthouder inzake gegevensbescherming klachten in verband met de behandeling van persoonsgegevens in te dienen.

18. Welke andere partijen zouden mijn persoonsgegevens kunnen behandelen?

a. Andere PwC-entiteiten

Mogelijk delen we persoonsgegevens met andere PwC-firma's die tot het PwC-netwerk behoren ("PwC-entiteiten"), maar alleen als dit in het kader van een onderzoek met betrekking tot een melding strikt noodzakelijk is.

b. Derden-leveranciers

Mogelijk delen we persoonsgegevens mee aan derden, namelijk medecontractanten en onderaannemers en/of hun dochterondernemingen en verbonden ondernemingen. Derden ondersteunen het PwC-netwerk door te voorzien in en het beheer waar te nemen van IT-systemen.

De derden-leveranciers kunnen op hun beurt een beroep doen op hun eigen externe onderaannemers die toegang tot persoonsgegevens hebben ("subverwerkers").

In het kader van ons beleid maken we alleen gebruik van derden-leveranciers die ertoe gehouden zijn een gepaste mate van beveiliging en vertrouwelijkheid te handhaven, persoonsgegevens slechts zoals door PwC opgedragen is te verwerken, en deze zelfde verplichtingen aan hun subverwerkers door te geven.

c. Andere ontvangers van persoonsgegevens

Mogelijk delen we persoonsgegevens mee aan:

- professionele adviseurs, bijvoorbeeld advocatenkantoren, voor zover dit noodzakelijk is om onze wettelijke rechten vast te stellen, uit te oefenen of te verdedigen en advies te verkrijgen; en
- wetshandhavings-, overheids- en reguleringsinstanties, voor zover dit noodzakelijk is en in overeenstemming met toepasselijke wetgeving.

19. Doorgifte van persoonsgegevens vanuit de Europese Economische Ruimte

Als we uw persoonsgegevens verwerken, is het mogelijk dat uw persoonsgegevens worden doorgegeven buiten het land waar u zich bevindt, onder meer voor opslag. Dit kunnen ook buiten de Europese Economische Ruimte ("EER") gelegen landen zijn. De mogelijkheid bestaat dat zulke gegevens ontvangende landen geen wetgeving hebben die in specifieke bescherming voor persoonsgegevens voorziet.

Als we uw persoonsgegevens binnen de EER verzamelen, zullen ze in voorkomend geval enkel en alleen buiten de EER worden doorgegeven:

- aan een ontvanger op een plaats waar die in een passend beschermingsniveau voor uw persoonsgegevens voorziet; en/of
- op basis van een overeenkomst die voldoet aan de voorwaarden die de Europese Unie ("EU") inzake doorgifte van persoonsgegevens aan gegevensverwerkers of verwerkingsverantwoordelijken buiten de EER ingesteld heeft, zoals door de Europese Commissie goedgekeurde standaard contractbedingen.

Onze benadering in het geval dat het Verenigd Koninkrijk de EU of de EER verlaat, is als volgt: we passen reeds de hierboven beschreven controles toe, en we zullen dit blijven doen, in het geval dat in het Verenigd Koninkrijk verzamelde persoonsgegevens worden doorgegeven naar een plaats buiten het Verenigd Koninkrijk.

20. Kinderen

De PwC Ethics Helpline is niet bedoeld voor, en mag niet worden gebruikt door, iemand die jonger dan 18 jaar is.

21. Aanspreekpunten voor het stellen van vragen en het uitoefenen van wettelijke rechten

U kunt:

- een verzoek indienen als u een wettelijk recht in verband met uw persoonsgegevens wilt uitoefenen; en/of

3. Qui peut utiliser la PwC Ethics Helpline ?

La PwC Ethics Helpline peut être utilisée par le personnel de PwC (en ce compris les associés, administrateurs, cadres, salariés, prestataires indépendants et travailleurs occasionnels de PwC) et par les parties intéressées externes telles que les partenaires commerciaux, les clients, les fournisseurs et toute personne ayant eu des contacts avec PwC. Ces personnes peuvent contacter librement la PwC Ethics Helpline pour poser une question ou signaler un problème de conformité concernant les activités du réseau PwC comme expliqué ci-après.

4. Comment dois-je procéder pour contacter la PwC Ethics Helpline ?

La PwC Ethics Helpline peut être contactée de deux façons : par téléphone et par Internet.

PwC a confié la gestion de ce service d'assistance à un fournisseur tiers indépendant, NAVEX. L'outil est accessible 24 heures sur 24. Les spécialistes de NAVEX recevront les signalements introduits via le site Web ou par téléphone, et les transmettront ensuite aux représentants appropriés de PwC pour examen.

5. Quels types de sujets puis-je signaler par le biais de la PwC Ethics Helpline ?

La PwC Ethics Helpline est mise à votre disposition aux fins suivantes :

Signaler tout comportement qui, selon vous, constitue : (1) une violation grave de la législation ou de la réglementation ; (2) une violation grave d'une politique, d'une norme ou du Code de conduite international de PwC ; ou (3) une violation grave des principes éthiques et déontologiques.

Poser une question sur une politique, une norme ou le Code de conduite international de PwC.

Dans certains pays, il se peut que PwC accepte uniquement les signalements concernant des sujets spécifiques tels que le domaine financier, la comptabilité, l'audit et la corruption. Si votre préoccupation porte sur un sujet qui, en vertu de la législation applicable, ne peut être signalé par le biais de la PwC Ethics Helpline, le signalement ne sera pas traité par cet outil et vous serez invité à vous adresser directement à votre responsable, associé, équipe chargée de l'éthique et de la déontologie ou représentant des ressources humaines local.

6. Quand dois-je utiliser d'autres canaux de signalement ?

Voyez si vous pouvez aborder le sujet directement avec un collaborateur de PwC via les canaux existants. Si vous ne vous sentez pas à l'aise ou si vous ne savez pas à qui vous adresser, utilisez la PwC Ethics Helpline.

7. Comment dois-je procéder si les informations que j'ai fournies s'avèrent inexactes ?

Gardez à l'esprit que les informations que vous fournissez peuvent entraîner des décisions concernant d'autres personnes. Il vous appartient dès lors de veiller à communiquer des informations que vous estimez exactes. Aucune représaille ne sera exercée à l'encontre des personnes qui introduisent un signalement de bonne foi par le biais de la PwC Ethics Helpline, même si certaines informations devaient s'avérer inexactes par la suite.

Les actes malveillants et les abus commis par le biais de cet outil ne seront en aucun cas tolérés et pourront entraîner des mesures disciplinaires, notamment le licenciement.

8. Puis-je introduire un signalement de manière anonyme ?

Nous vous encourageons à vous identifier lorsque vous introduisez un signalement. Ces renseignements nous seront d'une grande utilité dans le cadre de l'examen du dossier et nous permettront de vous protéger à long terme. Votre identité et les informations que vous fournissez seront traitées dans la plus stricte confidentialité et partagées selon une application rigoureuse du principe du besoin d'en connaître.

Tous les signalements introduits de manière anonyme seront examinés. Toutefois, nous ne pouvons garantir un anonymat permanent des auteurs de ces signalements. En effet, en raison de la nature du problème signalé, il se peut que l'identité des personnes concernées soit révélée par la suite de manière naturelle sans qu'aucun manquement ne puisse nous être imputé à cet égard. Une telle situation pourrait survenir, par exemple, si le cas présente un caractère unique. Notez également que, pour la plupart des signalements introduits de manière anonyme, nous ne sommes pas en mesure de décrypter l'identité de l'auteur.

9. Mon identité est-elle protégée lorsque j'introduis un signalement ?

Votre identité sera traitée dans la plus stricte confidentialité. Elle sera uniquement communiquée aux personnes qui doivent y avoir accès dans le cadre de l'examen du signalement ou d'une procédure judiciaire.

Nous ne révélerons pas votre identité à la personne mise en cause. Nous pourrions néanmoins être amenés à lui révéler votre identité si vous avez agi de manière malveillante ou délibérément abusive et que cette personne porte plainte. Dans pareilles circonstances exceptionnelles, nous serons dans l'obligation légale de révéler votre identité.

Nous recourons exclusivement à des fournisseurs tiers qui sont tenus de maintenir des niveaux de sécurité et de confidentialité appropriés, de traiter les données à caractère personnel uniquement selon les instructions de PwC et de transmettre ces mêmes obligations à leurs sous-traitants ultérieurs.

Lorsque nous traitons des données à caractère personnel vous concernant, celles-ci peuvent être transmises en dehors du pays où vous êtes établi, notamment à des fins de conservation. Cela inclut les pays en dehors de l'Espace économique européen (EEE). Il se peut que les pays destinataires ne disposent d'aucune législation prévoyant une protection spécifique pour les données à caractère personnel.

Lorsque nous collectons des données à caractère personnel vous concernant au sein de l'EEE, le transfert en dehors de l'EEE s'effectuera uniquement :

Si le Royaume-Uni sort de l'UE ou de l'EEE, notre approche est la suivante : nous appliquons déjà, et continuerons à appliquer, les contrôles décrits ci-avant si les données à caractère personnel collectées au Royaume-Uni sont transférées en dehors du Royaume-Uni.

A PwC tem uma sólida Política de Segurança da Informação, regularmente revista, por meio de auditorias e inspeções, e atualizada de forma coerente com as melhores práticas de segurança de informação.

Confidencialidade: Todos os colaboradores da PwC estão sujeitos a confidencialidade total e quaisquer terceiros contratados são obrigados a assinar um acordo de confidencialidade, caso este não faça parte do acordo principal celebrado entre as partes.

Transparência: A PwC sempre mantém os usuários informados sobre as alterações nos procedimentos para tratamento de Dados Pessoais que visam a proteger a privacidade e a segurança dos dados, incluindo o estabelecimento de práticas e políticas adequadas. O titular de dados pode, a qualquer momento, solicitar informações sobre onde e como os Dados Pessoais são armazenados, protegidos e usados.

Isolamento: Todo acesso a Dados Pessoais é bloqueado por padrão, usando política de privilégios zero. O acesso aos Dados Pessoais é restrito ao pessoal autorizado individualmente. A área responsável pelos dados emite autorizações e mantém um registro de autorizações concedidas. O pessoal autorizado recebe acesso mínimo ao banco de dados, no nível estritamente necessário para realizar suas atividades.

Direitos do titular dos Dados Pessoais: A PwC viabiliza o exercício dos direitos do titular dos dados em canal acessível e de fácil utilização.

Monitoramento: A PwC usa relatórios de segurança para monitorar padrões de acesso e identificar e mitigar ameaças em potencial. As operações administrativas, incluindo o acesso ao sistema, são registradas para fornecer uma trilha de auditoria, no caso de alterações não autorizadas ou acidentais.

Comunicação de incidente de segurança: Na hipótese de incidente de segurança que possa acarretar risco ou dano relevante aos dados do usuário, a PwC notificará a Autoridade Nacional de Proteção de Dados (ANPD), e, conforme o caso, notificará o titular, em ambos os casos, em prazo razoável, com informações sobre a descrição da natureza dos Dados Pessoais afetados, inclusive com indicação de medidas técnicas e de segurança utilizadas para proteção de dados, riscos relacionados e medidas que foram ou serão adotadas para reverter ou mitigar os efeitos do prejuízo.

If you make a report anonymously, we will review it. We cannot guarantee ongoing anonymity as the nature of the issue may, without fault on our part, subsequently naturally reveal the identities of people involved. This could happen, for example, if the case is particularly unique. Note that, for the majority of reports that have been submitted anonymously, we are not able to decipher the identity of the reporter.

Ultimately, we ask that you provide us with as much detail as you believe to be necessary to permit us to investigate the reported matter.

9. If I submit a report, is my identity protected?

Your identity will be treated with the highest levels of confidentiality and will only be shared with people who need access to this to investigate the report or who are part of legal proceedings.

We will not disclose your identity to the alleged wrongdoer. Please note that the exceptional situation where we may be required to do this is if you acted maliciously or deliberately abused the process, the accused raises a claim, and we must disclose your identity by law.

10. What personal data do you collect and why?

Votre identité et les informations que vous fournissez seront traitées avec les plus hauts niveaux de confidentialité et ne seront divulguées qu'en fonction des besoins.

Si vous faites un rapport de manière anonyme, nous l'examinerons. Nous ne pouvons garantir un anonymat permanent car la nature du problème peut, sans faute de notre part, révéler naturellement par la suite l'identité des personnes impliquées. Cela pourrait se produire, par exemple, si le cas est particulièrement unique. Notez que, pour la majorité des reportages qui ont été soumis de manière anonyme, nous ne sommes pas en mesure de déchiffrer l'identité du rapporteur.

En fin de compte, nous vous demandons de nous fournir autant de détails que vous jugez nécessaires pour nous permettre d'enquêter sur les faits signalés.

9. Dans le cas d'un signalement, mon identité est-elle protégée?

Votre identité sera traitée avec le plus haut niveau de confidentialité et ne sera partagée qu'avec les personnes qui ont besoin d'y accéder pour enquêter sur le signalement ou qui font partie d'une procédure judiciaire.

Nous ne divulguerons pas votre identité à l'auteur présumé. Veuillez noter que nous pouvons exceptionnellement être tenus de divulguer votre identité seulement si vous avez agi de manière malveillante, ou avez abusé délibérément du processus, l'auteur présumé pourra alors soulever une réclamation et nous devons alors lui divulguer votre identité par la loi.

For a list of active client facing entities within the PwC network and countries and regions in which PwC member firms operate, see the links provided at the beginning of this PDF document.

6. When should I use other reporting channels?

Consider if you can effectively raise the matter with someone directly at PwC through existing channels. If you don’t feel comfortable doing this, or do not know whom to contact, use PwC Ethics Helpline.

7. What if the information I provide turns out to be incorrect?

Realise that information you submit may result in decisions that affect other people. Therefore, you should submit information that you believe to be true. Under no circumstances will there be any reprisal against anyone who reports to PwC Ethics Helpline in good faith even if information later turns out to be untrue.

Acting maliciously or abusing PwC Ethics Helpline will never be tolerated and could result in disciplinary measures up to and including dismissal in appropriate cases.

8. Can I make a report anonymously?

Yes you can. However, we would encourage you to identify yourself when making a report because this will assist us with investigating the report and protecting you in the long run. Your identity and the information you provide will be treated with the highest levels of confidentiality and disclosed strictly on a need-to-know basis.

If you make a report anonymously, we will review it. We cannot guarantee ongoing anonymity as the nature of the issue may, without fault on our part, subsequently naturally reveal the identities of people involved. This could happen, for example, if the case is particularly unique.

For the majority of reports that have been submitted anonymously, we are not able to decipher the identity of the reporter. However, if total anonymity is requested, it is important to note that successful investigation and resolution of the matter may depend on the amount of information shared and ongoing interaction. There are limits on the firm's ability to investigate and resolve issues in circumstances in which the caller chooses to remain anonymous.

Ultimately, we ask that you provide us with as much detail as you believe to be necessary to permit us to investigate the reported matter.

9. If I submit a report, is my identity protected?

If you decide to submit your report anonymously, please see point 8 above.

If you decide to submit your name when making a report, your identity will be treated with the highest levels of confidentiality and will only be shared with people on a strictly need-to-know basis either to investigate the report or if required by law. However, we cannot guarantee that the wrongdoer will not become aware of your identity as part of the investigation process, as the nature of the issue may, without direct disclosure by us, subsequently naturally reveal the identities of people involved. This could happen, for example but not limited to, if the case is particularly unique, and/or where we may be required to disclose your identity if you acted maliciously or deliberately abused the process, the accused raises a claim, or we must disclose your identity by law.

10. What personal data do you collect and why?

We collect the personal data you provide when making a report.

This may be:

- your name and relationship to PwC;
- identification details, function, contact details, behaviour, and other personal data of the person(s) involved in the reported concern; and
- identification details, function, contact details, and other personal data of individuals who have knowledge of the reported concern.

We may also collect personal data about you indirectly. This can be provided by other reporters, supervisors, case participants, and other authorised persons involved in investigations.

We may also use the personal data if necessary as part of related legal proceedings and to comply with our legal obligations (we may be required by law to report certain matters to appropriate external authorities).

We do not require submission of sensitive personal data through PwC Ethics Helpline. Examples of this are race or ethnic origin, religious or other beliefs, political opinions, criminal record, physical or mental health, trade union membership, genetic or biometric data (when used to uniquely identify someone), and sexual life or orientation. However, we might receive sensitive personal data because you volunteer this as part of a report. We only use personal data as necessary to investigate a report and we will delete any sensitive personal data that is not necessary to investigate a concern.

12. Site usage data that is collected automatically

PwC Ethics Helpline, provided by our third party provider, NAVEX, automatically collects certain log data about visits to the website. This includes Internet Protocol address, browser type, browser language, and the date and

16. For how long do you keep my personal data?

In the absence of specific legal or regulatory requirements, our baseline retention period for records and other documentary evidence created in the PwC Ethics Helpline is 10 years from the closure of an investigation.

17. What are my rights in connection with my personal data?

Whether you make a report or are the subject of a report, if we hold or process personal data about you, you may have the following rights, as allowed by applicable data protection laws. - You may be able to obtain confirmation as to whether we process personal data about you, access a copy of your personal data and obtain certain other information, including why we process it and recipients of personal data.
- You may be able to request rectification of personal data if it is inaccurate, and have incomplete personal data completed.
- You may be able to request deletion or erasure of your personal data in the following cases:
 - the personal data is no longer necessary in relation to the purposes for which it was collected and processed;
 - our legal ground for processing is that the processing is necessary for legitimate interests pursued by us, you object to the processing and we do not have overriding legitimate grounds;
 - your personal data has been unlawfully processed; or
 - your personal data must be erased to comply with a legal obligation to which we are subject.
- You may be able to restrict personal data processing in the following cases:

The third-party providers may use their own third-party subcontractors that have access to personal data (sub-processors).

It is our policy to use only third-party providers that are bound to maintain appropriate levels of security and confidentiality, to process personal data only as instructed by PwC, and to flow those same obligations down to their sub-processors.

c. Other recipients of personal data

We may also disclose personal data to:

- professional advisers, for example, law firms, as necessary to establish, exercise or defend our legal rights and obtain advice; and

Votre identité et les informations que vous fournissez seront traitées avec les plus hauts niveaux de confidentialité et ne seront divulguées qu'en fonction des besoins.

Si vous faites un rapport de manière anonyme, nous l'examinerons. Nous ne pouvons garantir un anonymat permanent car la nature du problème peut, sans faute de notre part, révéler naturellement par la suite l'identité des personnes impliquées. The data protection laws of some jurisdictions require that we set out in this document our justification, based on law, for collecting and processing your personal data.

We rely on our legitimate interests to process your personal data in connection with PwC Ethics Helpline. Please note that where we rely on our legitimate interests to process your personal data, we have evaluated that your interests and fundamental rights do not override our legitimate interests. The evaluation of the legitimate interests might be carried out on a case-by-case basis.

In connection with PwC Ethics Helpline, these legitimate interests are:

- our legitimate interests in allowing people to ask questions and report suspected serious violations to us in a confidential manner; and
- our legitimate interests in identifying, preventing and addressing violations of laws, our Code of Conduct, and our professional standards.

We do not intend to process sensitive personal data in connection with PwC Ethics Helpline. To the extent we need to do this, the legal basis for such processing is that it is necessary for the purposes of carrying out the obligations and exercising specific rights of PwC in the field of employment, social security and social protection law, or that the processing is necessary for the establishment, exercise or defence of legal claims.

Additionally, we will process the personal data that identifies you as a reporter on the basis of consent given by you.

We only keep personal data (i) for the period of time needed to investigate your report or (ii) as otherwise necessary in connection with disciplinary proceedings, legal proceedings (including appeals), or other investigation or inquiry.

16. What are my rights in connection with my personal data?

Whether you make a report or are the subject of a report, if we hold or process personal data about you, you may have the following rights, as allowed by applicable data protection laws. - You may be able to request rectification of personal data if it is inaccurate, and have incomplete personal data completed.
- You may be able to request deletion or erasure of your personal data in the following cases:
 - the personal data is no longer necessary in relation to the purposes for which it was collected and processed;
 - our legal ground for processing is that the processing is necessary for legitimate interests pursued by us, you object to the processing and we do not have overriding legitimate grounds;

- You may be able to object to the processing of your personal data if our legal ground for processing is that the processing is necessary for a legitimate interest pursued by us.

You may have the right to lodge complaints about personal data handling with your local data protection regulator.

17. Which other parties could handle my personal data?

a. Other PwC Member Firms

We may share personal data with other PwC firms in the Network, but only if strictly necessary in connection with investigating a report. In this case, the relevant personal data will be shared only with the responsible or the involved persons within the other PwC firms.

b. Third Party Providers

We may disclose personal data to third party contractors, subcontractors, and/or their subsidiaries and affiliates. Third parties support the PwC Network by providing and administering IT systems.

The third party providers may use their own third party subcontractors that have access to personal data (sub-processors).

It is our policy to use only third party providers that are bound to maintain appropriate levels of security and confidentiality, to process personal data only as instructed by PwC, and to flow those same obligations down to their sub-processors.

c. Other recipients of personal data

We may also disclose personal data to:

- professional advisers, for example, law firms, as necessary to establish, exercise or defend our legal rights and obtain advice; and
- law enforcement, government authorities, and regulatory bodies, as required by and in accordance with applicable laws.

18. Transfers of Personal Data from the European Economic Area

If we process your personal data, your personal data may be transmitted outside the country where you are located, including for storage. This includes countries outside the European Economic Area (EEA). Recipient countries may not have laws that provide specific protection for personal data.

If we collect your personal data within the European Economic Area, transfer outside the European Economic Area will be only:

- to a recipient in a location which provides an adequate level of protection for your personal data; and/or
- under an agreement which satisfies EU requirements for the transfer of personal data to data processors or data controllers outside the EEA, such as standard contractual clauses approved by the European Commission.

Our approach if the United Kingdom exits the European Union or European Economic Area: we already apply, and will continue to apply, the controls described above if personal data collected within the United Kingdom is transferred outside the United Kingdom.

2. Who is responsible for the personal data I submit to PwC Ethics Helpline?

The data controller of personal data you provide to PwC Ethics Helpline is the PwC firm that is responsible for addressing or investigating the matter you have raised. For a list of active client facing entities within the PwC network and countries and regions in which PwC member firms operate, see the links provided at the beginning of this PDF document.

6. When should I use other reporting channels?

Consider if you can effectively raise the matter with someone directly at PwC through existing channels. If you don't feel comfortable doing this, or do not know whom to contact, use PwC Ethics Helpline.

7. What if the information I provide turns out to be incorrect?

Realise that information you submit may result in decisions that affect other people. Therefore, you should submit information that you believe to be true. Under no circumstances will there be any reprisal against anyone who reports to PwC Ethics Helpline in good faith even if information later turns out to be untrue.

Acting maliciously or abusing PwC Ethics Helpline will never be tolerated and could result in disciplinary measures up to and including dismissal in appropriate cases.

8. Can I make a report anonymously?

Yes you can. However, we would encourage you to identify yourself when making a report because this will assist us with investigating the report and protecting you in the long run. Your identity and the information you provide will be treated with the highest levels of confidentiality and disclosed strictly on a need-to-know basis.

If you make a report anonymously, we will review it. We cannot guarantee ongoing anonymity as the nature of the issue may, without fault on our part, subsequently naturally reveal the identities of people involved. This could happen, for example, if the case is particularly unique.

For the majority of reports that have been submitted anonymously, we are not able to decipher the identity of the reporter. However, if total anonymity is requested, it is important to note that successful investigation and resolution of the matter may depend on the amount of information shared and ongoing interaction. There are limits on the firm's ability to investigate and resolve issues in circumstances in which the caller chooses to remain anonymous.

Ultimately, we ask that you provide us with as much detail as you believe to be necessary to permit us to investigate the reported matter.

9. If I submit a report, is my identity protected?

If you decide to submit your report anonymously, please see point 8 above.

If you decide to submit your name when making a report, your identity will be treated with the highest levels of confidentiality and will only be shared with people on a strictly need-to-know basis either to investigate the report or if required by law. However, we cannot guarantee that the wrongdoer will not become aware of your identity as part of the investigation process, as the nature of the issue may, without direct disclosure by us, subsequently naturally reveal the identities of people involved. This could happen, for example but not limited to, if the case is particularly unique, and/or where we may be required to disclose your identity if you acted maliciously or deliberately abused the process, the accused raises a claim, or we must disclose your identity by law.

10. What personal data do you collect and why?

We collect the personal data you provide when making a report.

This may be:

- your name and relationship to PwC;
- identification details, function, contact details, behaviour, and other personal data of the person(s) involved in the reported concern; and
- identification details, function, contact details, and other personal data of individuals who have knowledge of the reported concern.

We may also collect personal data about you indirectly. This can be provided by other reporters, supervisors, case participants, and other authorised persons involved in investigations.

We use personal data only as necessary to conduct and conclude the investigation of the reported concern. We may also use the personal data if necessary as part of related legal proceedings and to comply with our legal obligations (we may be required by law to report certain matters to appropriate external authorities).

11. Do not submit sensitive personal data unless it's necessary and relevant

We do not require submission of sensitive personal data through PwC Ethics Helpline. Examples of this are race or ethnic origin, religious or other beliefs, political opinions, criminal record, physical or mental health, trade union membership, genetic or biometric data (when used to uniquely identify someone), and sexual life or orientation. However, we might receive sensitive personal data because you volunteer this as part of a report. We only use personal data as necessary to investigate a report and we will delete any sensitive personal data that is not necessary to investigate a concern.

12. Site usage data that is collected automatically

PwC Ethics Helpline, provided by our third party provider, NAVEX, automatically collects certain log data about visits to the website. This includes Internet Protocol address, browser type, browser language, and the date and time of your request. You can contact PwC Ethics Helpline to ask a question about any PwC policy, standard, or the PwC Global Code of Conduct.

We use personal data (typically name, job title, and email address) as necessary to correspond with you so that we can address your question. 16. For how long do you keep my personal data?

We retain the personal data processed by us for as long as is considered necessary for the purpose for which it was collected. This will vary according to the law and regulation applicable to the territory in which the data controller is based. In the absence of specific legal or regulatory requirements, our baseline retention period for records and other documentary evidence created in the PwC Ethics Helpline is 10 years from the closure of an investigation.

17. What are my rights in connection with my personal data?

Whether you make a report or are the subject of a report, if we hold or process personal data about you, you may have the following rights, as allowed by applicable data protection laws. We may delay or refuse requests if we believe granting access will jeopardise confidentiality or undermine our ability to investigate a reported concern.

- You may be able to obtain confirmation as to whether we process personal data about you, access a copy of your personal data and obtain certain other information, including why we process it and recipients of personal data.
- You may be able to request rectification of personal data if it is inaccurate, and have incomplete personal data completed.
- You may be able to request deletion or erasure of your personal data in the following cases:
 - the personal data is no longer necessary in relation to the purposes for which it was collected and processed;
 - our legal ground for processing is that the processing is necessary for legitimate interests pursued by us, you object to the processing and we do not have overriding legitimate grounds;
 - your personal data has been unlawfully processed; or
 - your personal data must be erased to comply with a legal obligation to which we are subject.
- You may be able to restrict personal data processing in the following cases:
 - for a period enabling us to verify the accuracy of personal data where you have contested the accuracy of the personal data;
 - your personal data have been unlawfully processed and you request restriction of processing instead of deletion;
 - your personal data is no longer necessary in relation to the purposes for which it was collected and processed but the personal data is required by you to establish, exercise or defend legal claims; or

It is our policy to use only third-party providers that are bound to maintain appropriate levels of security and confidentiality, to process personal data only as instructed by PwC, and to flow those same obligations down to their sub-processors.

c. Other recipients of personal data

We may also disclose personal data to:

- professional advisers, for example, law firms, as necessary to establish, exercise or defend our legal rights and obtain advice; and

1. Key terms used in these FAQs

In these FAQs, we refer to information about you or information that identifies you as “personal data” or “personal information.” We use the term “processing” to collectively describe any action or operation involving personal data, including its collection, storage, organisation, analysis, review, transfer, and destruction.

2. Who is responsible for the personal data I submit to PwC Ethics Helpline?

The data controller of personal data you provide to PwC Ethics Helpline is the PwC firm that is responsible for addressing or investigating the matter you have raised. This is usually the PwC firm where the incident took place or that is directly connected with the matter you have raised. A “data controller” has primary responsibility for ensuring that the handling of your personal data complies with data protection laws.

For a list of active client facing entities within the PwC network and countries and regions in which PwC member firms operate, see the links provided at the beginning of this PDF document.

In this document, “we,” “us” and “PwC” means the PwC firm that is responsible for addressing the matter raised and that is the data controller of your personal information.

3. Who can use PwC Ethics Helpline?

PwC Ethics Helpline can be used by PwC workers (including PwC partners, directors, managers, employees, independent contractors, and contingent workers) and external stakeholders, such as business partners, clients, suppliers, and anyone who has interacted with PwC. 4. How do I contact PwC Ethics Helpline?

There are two ways to contact PwC Ethics Helpline: by telephone and by Web.

For details see: <https://www.pwc.com/ethicshelpline>

PwC has contracted with an independent third party, NAVEX, to administer the Helpline. The tool provides 24-hour access. NAVEX specialists will receive reports submitted via the website or by phone and will route reports to appropriate PwC representatives for review.

---	--

6. When should I use other reporting channels?

Consider if you can effectively raise the matter with someone directly at PwC through existing channels. If you don't feel comfortable doing this, or do not know whom to contact, use PwC Ethics Helpline.

7. What if the information I provide turns out to be incorrect?

Realise that information you submit may result in decisions that affect other people. Therefore, you should submit information that you believe to be true. Under no circumstances will there be any reprisal against anyone who reports to PwC Ethics Helpline in good faith even if information later turns out to be untrue.

Acting maliciously or abusing PwC Ethics Helpline will never be tolerated and could result in disciplinary measures up to and including dismissal in appropriate cases.

8. Can I make a report anonymously?

Yes you can. However, we would encourage you to identify yourself when making a report because this will assist us with investigating the report and protecting you in the long run. Your identity and the information you provide will be treated with the highest levels of confidentiality and disclosed strictly on a need-to-know basis.

If you make a report anonymously, we will review it. We cannot guarantee ongoing anonymity as the nature of the issue may, without fault on our part, subsequently naturally reveal the identities of people involved. This could happen, for example, if the case is particularly unique.

For the majority of reports that have been submitted anonymously, we are not able to decipher the identity of the reporter. However, if total anonymity is requested, it is important to note that successful investigation and resolution of the matter may depend on the amount of information shared and ongoing interaction. There are limits on the firm's ability to investigate and resolve issues in circumstances in which the caller chooses to remain anonymous.

Ultimately, we ask that you provide us with as much detail as you believe to be necessary to permit us to investigate the reported matter.

9. If I submit a report, is my identity protected?

If you decide to submit your report anonymously, please see point 8 above.

If you decide to submit your name when making a report, your identity will be treated with the highest levels of confidentiality and will only be shared with people on a strictly need-to-know basis either to investigate the report or if required by law. However, we cannot guarantee that the wrongdoer will not become aware of your identity as part of the investigation process, as the nature of the issue may, without direct disclosure by us, subsequently naturally reveal the identities of people involved. This could happen, for example but not limited to, if the case is particularly unique, and/or where we may be required to disclose your identity if you acted maliciously or deliberately abused the process, the accused raises a claim, or we must disclose your identity by law.

10. What personal data do you collect and why?

We collect the personal data you provide when making a report.

This may be:

- your name and relationship to PwC;
- identification details, function, contact details, behaviour, and other personal data of the person(s) involved in the reported concern; and
- identification details, function, contact details, and other personal data of individuals who have knowledge of the reported concern.

We may also collect personal data about you indirectly. This can be provided by other reporters, supervisors, case participants, and other authorised persons involved in investigations.

We use personal data only as necessary to conduct and conclude the investigation of the reported concern. We may also use the personal data if necessary as part of related legal proceedings and to comply with our legal obligations (we may be required by law to report certain matters to appropriate external authorities).

11. Do not submit sensitive personal data unless it's necessary and relevant

We do not require submission of sensitive personal data through PwC Ethics Helpline. Examples of this are race or ethnic origin, religious or other beliefs, political opinions, criminal record, physical or mental health, trade union membership, genetic or biometric data (when used to uniquely identify someone), and sexual life or orientation. However, we might receive sensitive personal data because you volunteer this as part of a report. We only use personal data as necessary to investigate a report and we will delete any sensitive personal data that is not necessary to investigate a concern.

12. Site usage data that is collected automatically

PwC Ethics Helpline, provided by our third party provider, NAVEX, automatically collects certain log data about visits to the website. This includes Internet Protocol address, browser type, browser language, and the date and time of your request. This log data is used to improve the operation of PwC Ethics Helpline and is not tied to you personally. For further information, see NAVEX's privacy statement at the bottom of the PwC Ethics Helpline homepage.

13. What personal data do you record if I ask a question about PwC policies or standards?

You can contact PwC Ethics Helpline to ask a question about any PwC policy, standard, or the PwC Global Code of Conduct.

We use personal data (typically name, job title, and email address) as necessary to correspond with you so that we can address your question. We do not keep records that attribute questions raised to particular individuals. The exception to this is if the matter concerns a suspected violation relating to the business of the PwC Network, which will be handled as described in the other sections of this document.

14. Must I provide personal data as a statutory or contractual requirement?

Providing personal data to PwC Ethics Helpline is voluntary and there is no statutory or contractual requirement to provide personal data. Contacting or reporting to PwC Ethics Helpline is not mandatory.

15. What legal justification do you rely on to process personal data?

The data protection laws of some jurisdictions require that we set out in this document our justification, based on law, for collecting and processing your personal data.

- our legitimate interests in identifying, preventing and addressing violations of laws, our Code of Conduct, and our professional standards.

To the extent we need to do this, the legal basis for such processing is that it is necessary for the purposes of carrying out the obligations and exercising specific rights of PwC in the field of employment, social security and social protection law, or that the processing is necessary for the establishment, exercise or defence of legal claims.

16. For how long do you keep my personal data?

We retain the personal data processed by us for as long as is considered necessary for the purpose for which it was collected. This will vary according to the law and regulation applicable to the territory in which the data controller is based. In the absence of specific legal or regulatory requirements, our baseline retention period for records and other documentary evidence created in the PwC Ethics Helpline is 10 years from the closure of an investigation.

17. What are my rights in connection with my personal data?

Whether you make a report or are the subject of a report, if we hold or process personal data about you, you may have the following rights, as allowed by applicable data protection laws. We may delay or refuse requests if we believe granting access will jeopardise confidentiality or undermine our ability to investigate a reported concern.

- You may be able to obtain confirmation as to whether we process personal data about you, access a copy of your personal data and obtain certain other information, including why we process it and recipients of personal data.

- You may be able to request deletion or erasure of your personal data in the following cases:

- the personal data is no longer necessary in relation to the purposes for which it was collected and processed;
 - our legal ground for processing is that the processing is necessary for legitimate interests pursued by us, you object to the processing and we do not have overriding legitimate grounds;
 - your personal data has been unlawfully processed; or
 - your personal data must be erased to comply with a legal obligation to which we are subject.
- You may be able to restrict personal data processing in the following cases:
 - for a period enabling us to verify the accuracy of personal data where you have contested the accuracy of the personal data;

We encourage you to identify yourself when making a report because this will assist us with investigating the report and protecting you in the long run. Your identity and the information you provide will be treated with the highest levels of confidentiality and disclosed strictly on a need-to-know basis.

If you make a report anonymously, we will review it. We cannot guarantee ongoing anonymity as the nature of the issue may, without fault on our part, subsequently naturally reveal the identities of people involved. This could happen, for example, if the case is particularly unique. Note that, for the majority of reports that have been submitted anonymously, we are not able to decipher the identity of the reporter.

Ultimately, we ask that you provide us with as much detail as you believe to be necessary to permit us to investigate the reported matter.

9. If I submit a report, is my identity protected?

Your identity will be treated with the highest levels of confidentiality and will only be shared with people who need access to this to investigate the report or who are part of legal proceedings.

We will not disclose your identity to the alleged wrongdoer. Please note that the exceptional situation where we may be required to do this is if you acted maliciously or deliberately abused the process, the accused raises a claim, and we must disclose your identity by law.

10. What personal data do you collect and why?

We collect the personal data you provide when making a report.

This may be:

- your name and relationship to PwC;
- identification details, function, contact details, behaviour, and other personal data of the person(s) involved in the reported concern; and
- identification details, function, contact details, and other personal data of individuals who have knowledge of the reported concern.

We may also collect personal data about you indirectly. This can be provided by other reporters, supervisors, case participants, and other authorised persons involved in investigations.

We use personal data only as necessary to conduct and conclude the investigation of the reported concern. We may also use the personal data if necessary, as part of related legal proceedings and to comply with our legal obligations (we may be required by law to report certain matters to appropriate external authorities).

11. Do not submit sensitive personal data unless it's necessary and relevant

We do not require submission of sensitive personal data through PwC Ethics Helpline. Examples of this are race or ethnic origin, religious or other beliefs, political opinions, criminal record, physical or mental health, trade union membership, genetic or biometric data (when used to uniquely identify someone), and sexual life or orientation. However, we might receive sensitive personal data because you volunteer this as part of a report. We only use personal data as necessary to investigate a report and we will promptly delete any sensitive personal data that is not necessary to investigate a concern.

12. Site usage data that is collected automatically

PwC Ethics Helpline, provided by our third-party provider, NAVEX, automatically collects certain log data about visits to the website. This includes Internet Protocol address, browser type, browser language, and the date and time of your request. This log data is used to improve the operation of PwC Ethics Helpline and is not tied to you personally. For further information, see NAVEX's privacy statement at the bottom of the PwC Ethics Helpline homepage.

13. What personal data do you record if I ask a question about PwC policies or standards?

You can contact PwC Ethics Helpline to ask a question about any PwC policy, standard, or the PwC Global Code of Conduct.

We use personal data (typically name, job title, and email address) as necessary to correspond with you so that we can address your question. We do not keep records that attribute questions raised to particular individuals. The exception to this is if the matter concerns a suspected violation relating to the business of the PwC Network, which will be handled as described in the other sections of this document.

14. Must I provide personal data as a statutory or contractual requirement?

Providing personal data to PwC Ethics Helpline is voluntary and there is no statutory or contractual requirement to provide personal data. Contacting or reporting to PwC Ethics Helpline is not mandatory.

15. What legal justification do you rely on to process personal data?

We rely on our legitimate interests to process your personal data in connection with PwC Ethics Helpline. Please note that where we rely on our legitimate interests to process your personal data, we have evaluated that your interests and fundamental rights do not override our legitimate interests.

In connection with PwC Ethics Helpline, these legitimate interests are:

- our legitimate interests in allowing people to ask questions and report suspected serious violations to us in a confidential manner; and
- our legitimate interests in identifying, preventing and addressing violations of laws, our Code of Conduct, and our professional standards.

We do not intend to process sensitive personal data in connection with PwC Ethics Helpline. To the extent we need to do this, the legal basis for such processing is that it is necessary for the purposes of carrying out the obligations and exercising specific rights of PwC in the field of employment, social security and social protection law, or that the processing is necessary for the establishment, exercise or defence of legal claims.

16. For how long do you keep my personal data?

We only keep personal data (i) for the period of time needed to investigate your report or (ii) as otherwise necessary in connection with disciplinary proceedings, legal proceedings (including appeals), or other investigation or inquiry.

If we determine that a report is unsubstantiated, we will securely delete the personal data associated with the unsubstantiated report as soon as practicable following this determination and in accordance with applicable law.

17. What are my rights in connection with my personal data?

Whether you make a report or are the subject of a report, if we hold or process personal data about you, you may have the following rights, as allowed by applicable data protection laws. We may delay or refuse requests if we believe granting access will jeopardise confidentiality or undermine our ability to investigate a reported concern.

You may be able to exercise the legal rights listed below.

- You may be able to obtain confirmation as to whether we process personal data about you, access a copy of your personal data and obtain certain other information, including why we process it and recipients of personal data.
- You may be able to request rectification of personal data if it is inaccurate, and have incomplete personal data completed.
- You may be able to request deletion or erasure of your personal data in the following cases:
 - the personal data is no longer necessary in relation to the purposes for which it was collected and processed;
 - our legal ground for processing is that the processing is necessary for legitimate interests pursued by us, you object to the processing and we do not have overriding legitimate grounds;
 - your personal data has been unlawfully processed; or
 - your personal data must be erased to comply with a legal obligation to which we are subject.
- You may be able to restrict personal data processing in the following cases:

- for a period enabling us to verify the accuracy of personal data where you have contested the accuracy of the personal data;
 - your personal data have been unlawfully processed and you request restriction of processing instead of deletion;
 - your personal data is no longer necessary in relation to the purposes for which it was collected and processed but the personal data is required by you to establish, exercise or defend legal claims; or
 - for a period enabling us to verify whether the legitimate grounds relied on by us override your interests where you have objected to processing based on it being necessary for the pursuit of a legitimate interest identified by us.
- You may be able to object to the processing of your personal data if our legal ground for processing is that the processing is necessary for a legitimate interest pursued by us.

You may have the right to lodge complaints about personal data handling with your local data protection regulator.

- professional advisers, for example, law firms, as necessary to establish, exercise or defend our legal rights and obtain advice; and anyone who reports to PwC Ethics Helpline in good faith even if information later turns out to be untrue.

8. Can I make a report anonymously?

We encourage you to identify yourself when making a report because this will assist us with investigating the report and protecting you in the long run. Your identity and the information you provide will be treated with the highest levels of confidentiality and disclosed strictly on a need-to-know basis.

If you make a report anonymously, we will review it. We cannot guarantee ongoing anonymity as the nature of the issue may, without fault on our part, subsequently naturally reveal the identities of people involved. This could happen, for example, if the case is particularly unique. Note that, for the majority of reports that have been submitted anonymously, we are not able to decipher the identity of the reporter.

Ultimately, we ask that you provide us with as much detail as you believe to be necessary to permit us to investigate the reported matter.

9. If I submit a report, is my identity protected?

Your identity will be treated with the highest levels of confidentiality and will only be shared with people who need access to this to investigate the report or who are part of legal proceedings.

We will not disclose your identity to the alleged wrongdoer. Please note that the exceptional situation where we may be required to do this is if you acted maliciously or deliberately abused the process, the accused raises a claim, and we must disclose your identity by law.

10. What personal data do you collect and why? We collect the personal data you provide when making a report.

6. Kad man jāizmanto citi ziņošanas kanāli?

Apsver iespēju apspriest šo situāciju ar kādu PwC darbinieku, izmantojot esošos kanālus. Ja Tev ir neērti to darīt vai arī Tu nezini, pie kā vērsties, tad izmanto PwC Ētiskās palīdzības dienestu.

7. Kas notiek, ja manis sniegtā informācija izrādās nepatiesa?

Apzinies, ka Tevis sniegtā informācija var novest pie lēmumiem, kas skar citas personas, tādēļ Tev jāsniedz informācija, ko Tu uzskati par patiesu. Taču pret personu, kas labticīgi ziņo PwC Ētiskās palīdzības dienestam, nekādā gadījumā netiks vērstas represijas arī tad, ja informācija vēlāk izrādīsies nepatiesa.

Ļaunprātīga apmelošana vai PwC Ētiskās palīdzības dienesta ļaunprātīga izmantošana nav pieļaujama un var novest pie disciplinārsoda vai arī attiecīgos gadījumos pat pie darba attiecību izbeigšanas.

8. Vai es varu iesniegt ziņojumu anonīmi?

Mēs mudinām Tevi, iesniedzot ziņojumu, identificēt sevi, jo tas mums palīdzēs izvērtēt ziņojumā aprakstīto situāciju un aizsargāt Tevi ilgtermiņā. Uz Tavu identitāti un sniegto informāciju tiks attiecināts visaugstākais konfidencialitātes līmenis, un tā tiks izpausta tikai personām, kam to ir nepieciešams zināt.

Ja Tu iesniedz ziņojumu anonīmi, mēs to pārbaudīsim. Mēs nevaram garantēt pastāvīgu anonimitāti, jo iesaistīto personu identitātes var vēlāk bez mūsu vainas dabiski atklāties jautājuma rakstura dēļ, piemēram, ja lieta ir īpaši unikāla. Ņem vērā, ka lielākajā daļā anonīmi iesniegto ziņojumu mēs nespējam atšifrēt ziņotāja identitāti.

Visbeidzot, mēs lūdzam Tevi sniegt mums tik sīku informāciju, cik Tu uzskati par nepieciešamu, lai mēs varētu izvērtēt ziņojumā aprakstīto situāciju.

9. Ja es iesniedzu ziņojumu, vai mana identitāte tiek aizsargāta?

Uz Tavu identitāti tiks attiecināts visaugstākais konfidencialitātes līmenis. Tava identitāte tiks atklāta tikai personām, kurām ir nepieciešams tai piekļūt, lai izvērtētu ziņojumā aprakstīto situāciju, vai personām, kuras piedalās tiesas procesā.

Mēs neizpaužim Tavu identitāti ziņojumā norādītajam pārkāpējam. Lūdzam ņemt vērā, ka izņēmuma situācija, kurā mums var rasties pienākums izpaust Tavu identitāti, iestājas tad, ja Tu esi rīkojies ļaunprātīgi vai tieši pārkāpis likumā noteikto kārtību, apsūdzētais ceļ prasību, un mums ir likumisks pienākums izpaust Tavu identitāti.

5. What kinds of issues can I raise with PwC Ethics Helpline?

PwC Ethics Helpline is for:

Reporting any conduct that you believe amounts to a serious: (1) violation of law or regulation; (2) violation of a PwC policy, standard or PwC's Global Code of Conduct; or (3) unethical conduct.	Asking a question about any PwC policy, standard, or PwC's Global Code of Conduct.
---	--

6. When should I use other reporting channels?

Consider if you can effectively raise the matter with someone directly at PwC through existing channels. If you don't feel comfortable doing this, or do not know whom to contact, use PwC Ethics Helpline.

7. What if the information I provide turns out to be incorrect?

Realise that information you submit may result in decisions that affect other people. Therefore, you should submit information that you believe to be true. Under no circumstances will there be any reprisal against anyone who reports to PwC Ethics Helpline in good faith even if information later turns out to be untrue.

Acting maliciously or abusing PwC Ethics Helpline will never be tolerated and could result in disciplinary measures up to and including dismissal in appropriate cases.

8. Can I make a report anonymously?

Yes you can. However, we would encourage you to identify yourself when making a report because this will assist us with investigating the report and protecting you in the long run. Your identity and the information you provide will be treated with the highest levels of confidentiality and disclosed strictly on a need-to-know basis.

If you make a report anonymously, we will review it. We cannot guarantee ongoing anonymity as the nature of the issue may, without fault on our part, subsequently naturally reveal the identities of people involved. This could happen, for example, if the case is particularly unique.

For the majority of reports that have been submitted anonymously, we are not able to decipher the identity of the reporter. However, if total anonymity is requested, it is important to note that successful investigation and resolution of the matter may depend on the amount of information shared and ongoing interaction. There are limits on the firm's ability to investigate and resolve issues in circumstances in which the caller chooses to remain anonymous.

Ultimately, we ask that you provide us with as much detail as you believe to be necessary to permit us to investigate the reported matter.

9. If I submit a report, is my identity protected?

If you decide to submit your report anonymously, please see point 8 above.

If you decide to submit your name when making a report, your identity will be treated with the highest levels of confidentiality and will only be shared with people on a strictly need-to-know basis either to investigate the report or if required by law. However, we cannot guarantee that the wrongdoer will not become aware of your identity as part of the investigation process, as the nature of the issue may, without direct disclosure by us, subsequently naturally reveal the identities of people involved. This could happen, for example but not limited to, if the case is particularly unique, and/or where we may be required to disclose your identity if you acted maliciously or deliberately abused the process, the accused raises a claim, or we must disclose your identity by law.

10. What personal data do you collect and why?

We collect the personal data you provide when making a report.

This may be:

- your name and relationship to PwC;
- identification details, function, contact details, behaviour, and other personal data of the person(s) involved in the reported concern; and
- identification details, function, contact details, and other personal data of individuals who have knowledge of the reported concern.

We may also collect personal data about you indirectly. This can be provided by other reporters, supervisors, case participants, and other authorised persons involved in investigations.

We use personal data only as necessary to conduct and conclude the investigation of the reported concern. We may also use the personal data if necessary as part of related legal proceedings and to comply with our legal obligations (we may be required by law to report certain matters to appropriate external authorities).

11. Do not submit sensitive personal data unless it's necessary and relevant

We do not require submission of sensitive personal data through PwC Ethics Helpline. Examples of this are race or ethnic origin, religious or other beliefs, political opinions, criminal record, physical or mental health, trade union membership, genetic or biometric data (when used to uniquely identify someone), and sexual life or orientation. However, we might receive sensitive personal data because you volunteer this as part of a report. We only use personal data as necessary to investigate a report and we will delete any sensitive personal data that is not necessary to investigate a concern.

12. Site usage data that is collected automatically

PwC Ethics Helpline, provided by our third party provider, NAVEX, automatically collects certain log data about visits to the website. This includes Internet Protocol address, browser type, browser language, and the date and time of your request. This log data is used to improve the operation of PwC Ethics Helpline and is not tied to you personally. For further information, see NAVEX's privacy statement at the bottom of the PwC Ethics Helpline homepage.

13. What personal data do you record if I ask a question about PwC policies or standards?

You can contact PwC Ethics Helpline to ask a question about any PwC policy, standard, or the PwC Global Code of Conduct.

We use personal data (typically name, job title, and email address) as necessary to correspond with you so that we can address your question. We do not keep records that attribute questions raised to particular individuals. The exception to this is if the matter concerns a suspected violation relating to the business of the PwC Network, which will be handled as described in the other sections of this document.

14. Must I provide personal data as a statutory or contractual requirement?

Providing personal data to PwC Ethics Helpline is voluntary and there is no statutory or contractual requirement to provide personal data. Contacting or reporting to PwC Ethics Helpline is not mandatory.

15. What legal justification do you rely on to process personal data?

The data protection laws of some jurisdictions require that we set out in this document our justification, based on law, for collecting and processing your personal data.

We rely on our legitimate interests to process your personal data in connection with PwC Ethics Helpline. Please note that where we rely on our legitimate interests to process your personal data, we have evaluated that your interests and fundamental rights do not override our legitimate interests.

In connection with PwC Ethics Helpline, these legitimate interests are:

- our legitimate interests in allowing people to ask questions and report suspected serious violations to us in a confidential manner; and
- our legitimate interests in identifying, preventing and addressing violations of laws, our Code of Conduct, and our professional standards.

We do not intend to process sensitive personal data in connection with PwC Ethics Helpline. To the extent we need to do this, the legal basis for such processing is that it is necessary for the purposes of carrying out the obligations and exercising specific rights of PwC in the field of employment, social security and social protection law, or that the processing is necessary for the establishment, exercise or defence of legal claims.

16. For how long do you keep my personal data?

We retain the personal data processed by us for as long as is considered necessary for the purpose for which it was collected. This will vary according to the law and regulation applicable to the territory in which the data controller is based. In the absence of specific legal or regulatory requirements, our baseline retention period for records and other documentary evidence created in the PwC Ethics Helpline is 10 years from the closure of an investigation.

17. What are my rights in connection with my personal data?

Whether you make a report or are the subject of a report, if we hold or process personal data about you, you may have the following rights, as allowed by applicable data protection laws. We may delay or refuse requests if we believe granting access will jeopardise confidentiality or undermine our ability to investigate a reported concern.

You may be able to exercise the legal rights listed below.

- You may be able to obtain confirmation as to whether we process personal data about you, access a copy of your personal data and obtain certain other information, including why we process it and recipients of personal data.
- You may be able to request rectification of personal data if it is inaccurate, and have incomplete personal data completed.

- You may be able to request deletion or erasure of your personal data in the following cases:
 - the personal data is no longer necessary in relation to the purposes for which it was collected and processed;
 - our legal ground for processing is that the processing is necessary for legitimate interests pursued by us, you object to the processing and we do not have overriding legitimate grounds;
 - your personal data has been unlawfully processed; or
 - your personal data must be erased to comply with a legal obligation to which we are subject.

- You may be able to restrict personal data processing in the following cases:
 - for a period enabling us to verify the accuracy of personal data where you have contested the accuracy of the personal data;
 - your personal data have been unlawfully processed and you request restriction of processing instead of deletion;
 - your personal data is no longer necessary in relation to the purposes for which it was collected and processed but the personal data is required by you to establish, exercise or defend legal claims; or
 - for a period enabling us to verify whether the legitimate grounds relied on by us override your interests where you have objected to processing based on it being necessary for the pursuit of a legitimate interest identified by us.

- You may be able to object to the processing of your personal data if our legal ground for processing is that the processing is necessary for a legitimate interest pursued by us.

You may have the right to lodge complaints about personal data handling with your local data protection regulator.

18. Which other parties could handle my personal data?

a. Other PwC Member Firms

We may share personal data with other PwC firms in the Network, but only if strictly necessary in connection with investigating a report.

b. Third Party Providers

We may disclose personal data to third party contractors, subcontractors, and/or their subsidiaries and affiliates. Third parties support the PwC Network by providing and administering IT systems.

The third-party providers may use their own third-party subcontractors that have access to personal data (sub-processors).

It is our policy to use only third-party providers that are bound to maintain appropriate levels of security and confidentiality, to process personal data only as instructed by PwC, and to flow those same obligations down to their sub-processors.

c. Other recipients of personal data

We may also disclose personal data to:

- professional advisers, for example, law firms, as necessary to establish, exercise or defend our legal rights and obtain advice; and
- law enforcement, government authorities, and regulatory bodies, as required by and in accordance with applicable laws.

19. Transfers of Personal Data

If we process your personal data, your personal data may be transmitted outside the country where you are located, including for storage. This includes countries who may not have laws that provide specific protection for personal data. We will carry out such transfers only where we have a lawful basis to do so, including to a recipient (i) who is in a country which provides an adequate level of protection for personal data; or (ii) under an agreement which covers the applicable requirements for the transfer of personal data.

If we collect your personal data within the European Economic Area, transfer outside the European Economic Area will be only:

- to a recipient in a location which provides an adequate level of protection for your personal data; and/or

Your identity and the information you provide will be treated with the highest levels of confidentiality and disclosed strictly on a need-to-know basis.

If you make a report anonymously, we will review it. We cannot guarantee ongoing anonymity as the nature of the issue may, without fault on our part, subsequently naturally reveal the identities of people involved. This could happen, for example, if the case is particularly unique. Note that, for the majority of reports that have been submitted anonymously, we are not able to decipher the identity of the reporter.

Ultimately, we ask that you provide us with as much detail as you believe to be necessary to permit us to investigate the reported matter.

9. If I submit a report, is my identity protected?

Your identity will be treated with the highest levels of confidentiality and will only be shared with people who need access to this to investigate the report or who are part of legal proceedings.

We may also use the personal data if necessary as part of related legal proceedings and to comply with our legal obligations (we may be required by law to report certain matters to appropriate external authorities).

11. Do not submit sensitive personal data unless it's necessary and relevant

 - ❑ your personal data has been unlawfully processed; or
 - ❑ your personal data must be erased to comply with a legal obligation to which we are subject.
- You may be able to restrict personal data processing in the following cases:
 - ❑ for a period enabling us to verify the accuracy of personal data where you have contested the accuracy of the personal data;

8. Дали можам да поднесам пријава анонимно?

Ве охрабруваме да се идентификувате кога правите пријава затоа што тоа ќе ни помогне да ја испитаеме пријавата и да ве заштитиме на долг рок. Вашиот идентитет и информациите кои ги доставувате ќе бидат третирали со највисоко ниво на доверливост и откриени строго врз основа на потребите.

Ако направите пријава анонимно, ние истата ќе ја разгледаме. Ние нема да ви го откриеме вашиот идентитет на лицата вклучени во пријавата. Ве молиме имајте во предвид дека во исклучителна ситуација во која можеби ќе се бара да го сториме тоа, е доколку сте постапиле злонамерно или намерно сте го злоупотребиле процесот, доколку обвинетиот покренува судски случај и ние мора да го откриеме вашиот идентитет со закон.

In certain countries, PwC may only accept reports relating to certain matters, such as financial, accounting, auditing, and bribery matters. If your concern pertains to a matter that under applicable legislation can’t be reported to PwC Ethics Helpline, the report will not be dealt with by PwC Ethics Helpline and you will be advised to report the matter directly to your local manager, partner, ethics team, or HC representative, as appropriate.

6. When should I use other reporting channels?

Consider if you can effectively raise the matter with someone directly at PwC through existing channels. If you don't feel comfortable doing this, or do not know whom to contact, use PwC Ethics Helpline.

7. What if the information I provide turns out to be incorrect?

Realise that information you submit may result in decisions that affect other people. Therefore, you should submit information that you believe to be true. Under no circumstances will there be any reprisal against anyone who reports to PwC Ethics Helpline in good faith even if information later turns out to be untrue.

Acting maliciously or abusing PwC Ethics Helpline will never be tolerated and could result in disciplinary measures up to and including dismissal in appropriate cases.

8. Can I make a report anonymously?

We encourage you to identify yourself when making a report because this will assist us with investigating the report and protecting you in the long run. Your identity and the information you provide will be treated with the highest levels of confidentiality and disclosed strictly on a need-to-know basis.

If you make a report anonymously, we will review it. We cannot guarantee ongoing anonymity as the nature of the issue may, without fault on our part, subsequently naturally reveal the identities of people involved. This could happen, for example, if the case is particularly unique. Note that, for the majority of reports that have been submitted anonymously, we are not able to decipher the identity of the reporter.

Ultimately, we ask that you provide us with as much detail as you believe to be necessary to permit us to investigate the reported matter.

9. If I submit a report, is my identity protected?

Your identity will be treated with the highest levels of confidentiality and will only be shared with people who need access to this to investigate the report or who are part of legal proceedings.

Generally, the Reporting Officer will request your written consent before disclosing any information which may identify you directly. However, please note that there may be an exceptional situation where we may be required to disclose your identity if the disclosure is not protected in terms of law, such as if you knowingly disclose information which you know or ought reasonably to know is false, or if the disclosure is not made substantially in the manner established by our internal procedures.

We may also use the personal data if necessary as part of related legal proceedings and to comply with our legal obligations (we may be required by law to report certain matters to appropriate external authorities).

Examples of this are race or ethnic origin, religious or other beliefs, political opinions, criminal record, physical or mental health, trade union membership, genetic or biometric data (when used to uniquely identify someone), and sexual life or orientation. We rely on our legitimate interests to process your personal data in connection with PwC Ethics Helpline. Please note that where we rely on our legitimate interests to process your personal data, we have evaluated that your interests and fundamental rights do not override our legitimate interests.

In connection with PwC Ethics Helpline, these legitimate interests are:

- our legitimate interests in allowing people to ask questions and report suspected serious violations to us in a confidential manner; and
- our legitimate interests in identifying, preventing and addressing violations of laws, our Code of Conduct, and our professional standards.

We do not intend to process sensitive personal data in connection with PwC Ethics Helpline. To the extent we need to do this, the legal basis for such processing is that it is necessary for the purposes of carrying out the obligations

16. For how long do you keep my personal data?

 - our legal ground for processing is that the processing is necessary for legitimate interests pursued by us, you object to the processing and we do not have overriding legitimate grounds;
 - your personal data has been unlawfully processed; or
 - your personal data must be erased to comply with a legal obligation to which we are subject.
- You may be able to restrict personal data processing in the following cases:
 - for a period enabling us to verify the accuracy of personal data where you have contested the accuracy of the personal data;

- You may be able to object to the processing of your personal data if our legal ground for processing is that the processing is necessary for a legitimate interest pursued by us.

You may have the right to lodge complaints about personal data handling with your local data protection regulator.

If you decide to submit your name when making a report, your identity will be treated with the highest levels of confidentiality and will only be shared with people on a strictly need-to-know basis either to investigate the report or if required by law. However, we cannot guarantee that the wrongdoer will not become aware of your identity as part of the investigation process, as the nature of the issue may, without direct disclosure by us, subsequently naturally reveal the identities of people involved. This could happen, for example but not limited to, if the case is particularly unique, and/or where we may be required to disclose your identity if you acted maliciously or deliberately abused the process, the accused raises a claim, or we must disclose your identity by law.

10. What personal data do you collect and why?

This may be:

- your name and relationship to PwC;
- identification details, function, contact details, behaviour, and other personal data of the person(s) involved in the reported concern; and

We may also collect personal data about you indirectly. This can be provided by other reporters, supervisors, case participants, and other authorised persons involved in investigations.

We use personal data only as necessary to conduct and conclude the investigation of the reported concern. We may also use the personal data if necessary as part of related legal proceedings and to comply with our legal obligations (we may be required by law to report certain matters to appropriate external authorities).

11. Do not submit sensitive personal data unless it's necessary and relevant

We do not require submission of sensitive personal data through PwC Ethics Helpline. Examples of this are race or ethnic origin, religious or other beliefs, political opinions, criminal record, physical or mental health, trade union membership, genetic or biometric data (when used to uniquely identify someone), and sexual life or orientation. However, we might receive sensitive personal data because you volunteer this as part of a report. We only use personal data as necessary to investigate a report and we will delete any sensitive personal data that is not necessary to investigate a concern.

12. Site usage data that is collected automatically

PwC Ethics Helpline, provided by our third party provider, NAVEX, automatically collects certain log data about visits to the website. This includes Internet Protocol address, browser type, browser language, and the date and time of your request. For further information, see NAVEX's privacy statement at the bottom of the PwC Ethics Helpline homepage.

13. What personal data do you record if I ask a question about PwC policies or standards?

You can contact PwC Ethics Helpline to ask a question about any PwC policy, standard, or the PwC Global Code of Conduct.

We use personal data (typically name, job title, and email address) as necessary to correspond with you so that we can address your question. We rely on our legitimate interests to process your personal data in connection with PwC Ethics Helpline. Please note that where we rely on our legitimate interests to process your personal data, we have evaluated that your interests and fundamental rights do not override our legitimate interests.

16. For how long do you keep my personal data?

We retain the personal data processed by us for as long as is considered necessary for the purpose for which it was collected.  - your personal data has been unlawfully processed; or
 - your personal data must be erased to comply with a legal obligation to which we are subject.

- You may be able to restrict personal data processing in the following cases:
 - ❑ for a period enabling us to verify the accuracy of personal data where you have contested the accuracy of the personal data;
 - ❑ your personal data have been unlawfully processed and you request restriction of processing instead of deletion;
 - ❑ your personal data is no longer necessary in relation to the purposes for which it was collected and processed but the personal data is required by you to establish, exercise or defend legal claims; or
 - ❑ for a period enabling us to verify whether the legitimate grounds relied on by us override your interests where you have objected to processing based on it being necessary for the pursuit of a legitimate interest identified by us.

- You may be able to object to the processing of your personal data if our legal ground for processing is that the processing is necessary for a legitimate interest pursued by us.

If you make a report anonymously, we will review it. We cannot guarantee ongoing anonymity as the nature of the issue may, without fault on our part, subsequently naturally reveal the identities of people involved. This could happen, for example, if the case is particularly unique.

For the majority of reports that have been submitted anonymously, we are not able to decipher the identity of the reporter. However, if total anonymity is requested, it is important to note that successful investigation and resolution of the matter may depend on the amount of information shared and ongoing interaction. There are limits on the firm's ability to investigate and resolve issues in circumstances in which the caller chooses to remain anonymous.

Ultimately, we ask that you provide us with as much detail as you believe to be necessary to permit us to investigate the reported matter.

1. Key terms used in these FAQs

In these FAQs, we refer to information about you or information that identifies you as “personal data” or “personal information.” We use the term “processing” to collectively describe any action or operation involving personal data, including its collection, storage, organisation, analysis, review, transfer, and destruction.

2. Who is responsible for the personal data I submit to PwC Ethics Helpline?

The data controller of personal data you provide to PwC Ethics Helpline is the PwC firm that is responsible for addressing or investigating the matter you have raised. This is usually the PwC firm where the incident took place or that is directly connected with the matter you have raised. A “data controller” has primary responsibility for ensuring that the handling of your personal data complies with data protection laws.

For a list of active client facing entities within the PwC network and countries and regions in which PwC member firms operate, see the links provided at the beginning of this PDF document.

In this document, “we,” “us” and “PwC” means the PwC firm that is responsible for addressing the matter raised and that is the data controller of your personal information.

4. How do I contact PwC Ethics Helpline?

There are two ways to contact PwC Ethics Helpline: by telephone and by Web.

For details see: <https://www.pwc.com/ethicshelpline>

---	--

6. When should I use other reporting channels?

Consider if you can effectively raise the matter with someone directly at PwC through existing channels. If you don't feel comfortable doing this, or do not know whom to contact, use PwC Ethics Helpline.

7. What if the information I provide turns out to be incorrect?

Realise that information you submit may result in decisions that affect other people. Therefore, you should submit information that you believe to be true. Under no circumstances will there be any reprisal against anyone who reports to PwC Ethics Helpline in good faith even if information later turns out to be untrue.

Acting maliciously or abusing PwC Ethics Helpline will never be tolerated and could result in disciplinary measures up to and including dismissal in appropriate cases.

8. Can I make a report anonymously?

Yes you can. However, we would encourage you to identify yourself when making a report because this will assist us with investigating the report and protecting you in the long run. Your identity and the information you provide will be treated with the highest levels of confidentiality and disclosed strictly on a need-to-know basis.

If you make a report anonymously, we will review it. We cannot guarantee ongoing anonymity as the nature of the issue may, without fault on our part, subsequently naturally reveal the identities of people involved. This could happen, for example, if the case is particularly unique.

For the majority of reports that have been submitted anonymously, we are not able to decipher the identity of the reporter. However, if total anonymity is requested, it is important to note that successful investigation and resolution of the matter may depend on the amount of information shared and ongoing interaction. There are limits on the firm's ability to investigate and resolve issues in circumstances in which the caller chooses to remain anonymous.

Ultimately, we ask that you provide us with as much detail as you believe to be necessary to permit us to investigate the reported matter.

9. If I submit a report, is my identity protected?

If you decide to submit your report anonymously, please see point 8 above.

If you decide to submit your name when making a report, your identity will be treated with the highest levels of confidentiality and will only be shared with people on a strictly need-to-know basis either to investigate the report or if required by law. However, we cannot guarantee that the wrongdoer will not become aware of your identity as part of the investigation process, as the nature of the issue may, without direct disclosure by us, subsequently naturally reveal the identities of people involved. This could happen, for example but not limited to, if the case is particularly unique, and/or where we may be required to disclose your identity if you acted maliciously or deliberately abused the process, the accused raises a claim, or we must disclose your identity by law.

10. What personal data do you collect and why?

We collect the personal data you provide when making a report.

This may be:

- your name and relationship to PwC;
- identification details, function, contact details, behaviour, and other personal data of the person(s) involved in the reported concern; and
- identification details, function, contact details, and other personal data of individuals who have knowledge of the reported concern.

We may also collect personal data about you indirectly. This can be provided by other reporters, supervisors, case participants, and other authorised persons involved in investigations.

We use personal data only as necessary to conduct and conclude the investigation of the reported concern. We may also use the personal data if necessary as part of related legal proceedings and to comply with our legal obligations (we may be required by law to report certain matters to appropriate external authorities).

11. Do not submit sensitive personal data unless it's necessary and relevant

We do not require submission of sensitive personal data through PwC Ethics Helpline. Examples of this are race or ethnic origin, religious or other beliefs, political opinions, criminal record, physical or mental health, trade union membership, genetic or biometric data (when used to uniquely identify someone), and sexual life or orientation. However, we might receive sensitive personal data because you volunteer this as part of a report. We only use personal data as necessary to investigate a report and we will delete any sensitive personal data that is not necessary to investigate a concern.

12. Site usage data that is collected automatically

PwC Ethics Helpline, provided by our third party provider, NAVEX, automatically collects certain log data about visits to the website. This includes Internet Protocol address, browser type, browser language, and the date and time of your request. You can contact PwC Ethics Helpline to ask a question about any PwC policy, standard, or the PwC Global Code of Conduct.

We use personal data (typically name, job title, and email address) as necessary to correspond with you so that we can address your question. 14. Must I provide personal data as a statutory or contractual requirement?

Providing personal data to PwC Ethics Helpline is voluntary and there is no statutory or contractual requirement to provide personal data. Contacting or reporting to PwC Ethics Helpline is not mandatory.

15. What legal justification do you rely on to process personal data?

We rely on our legitimate interests to process your personal data in connection with PwC Ethics Helpline. Please note that where we rely on our legitimate interests to process your personal data, we have evaluated that your interests and fundamental rights do not override our legitimate interests.

16. For how long do you keep my personal data?

We retain the personal data processed by us for as long as is considered necessary for the purpose for which it was collected. This will vary according to the law and regulation applicable to the territory in which the data controller is based. In the absence of specific legal or regulatory requirements, our baseline retention period for records and other documentary evidence created in the PwC Ethics Helpline is 10 years from the closure of an investigation.

17. What are my rights in connection with my personal data?

Whether you make a report or are the subject of a report, if we hold or process personal data about you, you may have the following rights, as allowed by applicable data protection laws. We may delay or refuse requests if we believe granting access will jeopardise confidentiality or undermine our ability to investigate a reported concern.

You may be able to exercise the legal rights listed below.

- You may be able to obtain confirmation as to whether we process personal data about you, access a copy of your personal data and obtain certain other information, including why we process it and recipients of personal data.

- You may be able to request rectification of personal data if it is inaccurate, and have incomplete personal data completed.
- You may be able to request deletion or erasure of your personal data in the following cases:
 - the personal data is no longer necessary in relation to the purposes for which it was collected and processed;
 - our legal ground for processing is that the processing is necessary for legitimate interests pursued by us, you object to the processing and we do not have overriding legitimate grounds;
 - your personal data has been unlawfully processed; or
 - your personal data must be erased to comply with a legal obligation to which we are subject.
- You may be able to restrict personal data processing in the following cases:
 - for a period enabling us to verify the accuracy of personal data where you have contested the accuracy of the personal data;
 - your personal data have been unlawfully processed and you request restriction of processing instead of deletion;
 - your personal data is no longer necessary in relation to the purposes for which it was collected and processed but the personal data is required by you to establish, exercise or defend legal claims; or
 - for a period enabling us to verify whether the legitimate grounds relied on by us override your interests where you have objected to processing based on it being necessary for the pursuit of a legitimate interest identified by us.
- You may be able to object to the processing of your personal data if our legal ground for processing is that the processing is necessary for a legitimate interest pursued by us.

You may have the right to lodge complaints about personal data handling with your local data protection regulator.

c. Other recipients of personal data

We may also disclose personal data to:

- professional advisers, for example, law firms, as necessary to establish, exercise or defend our legal rights and obtain advice; and

If you make a report anonymously, we will review it. We cannot guarantee ongoing anonymity as the nature of the issue may, without fault on our part, subsequently naturally reveal the identities of people involved. This could happen, for example, if the case is particularly unique. Ultimately, we ask that you provide us with as much detail as you believe to be necessary to permit us to investigate the reported matter.

9. If I submit a report, is my identity protected?

Your identity will be treated with the highest levels of confidentiality and will only be shared with people who need access to this to investigate the report or who are part of legal proceedings.

Votre identité et les informations que vous fournissez seront traitées avec les plus hauts niveaux de confidentialité et ne seront divulguées qu'en fonction des besoins.

Si vous faites un rapport de manière anonyme, nous l'examinerons. Nous ne pouvons garantir un anonymat permanent car la nature du problème peut, sans faute de notre part, révéler naturellement par la suite l'identité des personnes impliquées. Cela pourrait se produire, par exemple, si le cas est particulièrement unique. Notez que, pour la majorité des reportages qui ont été soumis de manière anonyme, nous ne sommes pas en mesure de déchiffrer l'identité du rapporteur.

En fin de compte, nous vous demandons de nous fournir autant de détails que vous jugez nécessaires pour nous permettre d'enquêter sur les faits signalés.

9. Dans le cas d'un signalement, mon identité est-elle protégée?

Votre identité sera traitée avec le plus haut niveau de confidentialité et ne sera partagée qu'avec les personnes qui ont besoin d'y accéder pour enquêter sur le signalement ou qui font partie d'une procédure judiciaire.

Nous ne divulguerons pas votre identité à l'auteur présumé. Veuillez noter que nous pouvons exceptionnellement être tenus de divulguer votre identité seulement si vous avez agi de manière malveillante, ou avez abusé délibérément du processus, l'auteur présumé pourra alors soulever une réclamation et nous devons alors lui divulguer votre identité par la loi.

If you make a report anonymously, we will review it. We cannot guarantee ongoing anonymity as the nature of the issue may, without fault on our part, subsequently naturally reveal the identities of people involved. This could happen, for example, if the case is particularly unique. Note that, for the majority of reports that have been submitted anonymously, we are not able to decipher the identity of the reporter.

Ultimately, we ask that you provide us with as much detail as you believe to be necessary to permit us to investigate the reported matter.

9. If I submit a report, is my identity protected?

Your identity will be treated with the highest levels of confidentiality and will only be shared with people who need access to this to investigate the report or who are part of legal proceedings.

We will not disclose your identity to the alleged wrongdoer. Please note that the exceptional situation where we may be required to do this is if you acted maliciously or deliberately abused the process, the accused raises a claim, and we must disclose your identity by law.

10. What personal data do you collect and why?

Votre identité et les informations que vous fournissez seront traitées avec les plus hauts niveaux de confidentialité et ne seront divulguées qu'en fonction des besoins.

Si vous faites un rapport de manière anonyme, nous l'examinerons. Nous ne pouvons garantir un anonymat permanent car la nature du problème peut, sans faute de notre part, révéler naturellement par la suite l'identité des personnes impliquées. Cela pourrait se produire, par exemple, si le cas est particulièrement unique. Notez que, pour la majorité des reportages qui ont été soumis de manière anonyme, nous ne sommes pas en mesure de déchiffrer l'identité du rapporteur.

En fin de compte, nous vous demandons de nous fournir autant de détails que vous jugez nécessaires pour nous permettre d'enquêter sur les faits signalés.

9. Dans le cas d'un signalement, mon identité est-elle protégée?

Votre identité sera traitée avec le plus haut niveau de confidentialité et ne sera partagée qu'avec les personnes qui ont besoin d'y accéder pour enquêter sur le signalement ou qui font partie d'une procédure judiciaire.

Nous ne divulguerons pas votre identité à l'auteur présumé. Veuillez noter que nous pouvons exceptionnellement être tenus de divulguer votre identité seulement si vous avez agi de manière malveillante, ou avez abusé délibérément du processus, l'auteur présumé pourra alors soulever une réclamation et nous devons alors lui divulguer votre identité par la loi.

Yes you can. However, we would encourage you to identify yourself when making a report because this will assist us with investigating the report and protecting you in the long run. Your identity and the information you provide will be treated with the highest levels of confidentiality and disclosed strictly on a need-to-know basis.

If you make a report anonymously, we will review it. We cannot guarantee ongoing anonymity as the nature of the issue may, without fault on our part, subsequently naturally reveal the identities of people involved. This could happen, for example, if the case is particularly unique.

For the majority of reports that have been submitted anonymously, we are not able to decipher the identity of the reporter. However, if total anonymity is requested, it is important to note that successful investigation and resolution of the matter may depend on the amount of information shared and ongoing interaction. There are limits on the firm's ability to investigate and resolve issues in circumstances in which the caller chooses to remain anonymous.

Ultimately, we ask that you provide us with as much detail as you believe to be necessary to permit us to investigate the reported matter.

9. If I submit a report, is my identity protected?

If you decide to submit your report anonymously, please see point 8 above.

If you decide to submit your name when making a report, your identity will be treated with the highest levels of confidentiality and will only be shared with people on a strictly need-to-know basis either to investigate the report or if required by law. However, we cannot guarantee that the wrongdoer will not become aware of your identity as part of the investigation process, as the nature of the issue may, without direct disclosure by us, subsequently naturally reveal the identities of people involved. This could happen, for example but not limited to, if the case is particularly unique, and/or where we may be required to disclose your identity if you acted maliciously or deliberately abused the process, the accused raises a claim, or we must disclose your identity by law.

1. Key terms used in these FAQs

In these FAQs, we refer to information about you or information that identifies you as “personal data” or “personal information.” We use the term “processing” to collectively describe any action or operation involving personal data, including its collection, storage, organisation, analysis, review, transfer, and destruction.

2. Who is responsible for the personal data I submit to PwC Ethics Helpline?

The data controller of personal data you provide to PwC Ethics Helpline is the PwC firm that is responsible for addressing or investigating the matter you have raised. This is usually the PwC firm where the incident took place or that is directly connected with the matter you have raised. A “data controller” has primary responsibility for ensuring that the handling of your personal data complies with data protection laws.

For a list of active client facing entities within the PwC network and countries and regions in which PwC member firms operate, see the links provided at the beginning of this PDF document.

In this document, “we,” “us” and “PwC” means the PwC firm that is responsible for addressing the matter raised and that is the data controller of your personal information.

3. Who can use PwC Ethics Helpline?

4. How do I contact PwC Ethics Helpline?

There are two ways to contact PwC Ethics Helpline: by telephone and by Web.

For details see: <https://www.pwc.com/ethicshelpline>

PwC has contracted with an independent third party, NAVEX, to administer the Helpline. The tool provides 24-hour access. NAVEX specialists will receive reports submitted via the website or by phone and will route reports to appropriate PwC representatives for review.

---	--

6. When should I use other reporting channels?

Consider if you can effectively raise the matter with someone directly at PwC through existing channels. If you don’t feel comfortable doing this, or do not know whom to contact, use PwC Ethics Helpline.

7. What if the information I provide turns out to be incorrect?

Realise that information you submit may result in decisions that affect other people. Therefore, you should submit information that you believe to be true. Under no circumstances will there be any reprisal against anyone who reports to PwC Ethics Helpline in good faith even if information later turns out to be untrue.

Acting maliciously or abusing PwC Ethics Helpline will never be tolerated and could result in disciplinary measures up to and including dismissal in appropriate cases.

8. Can I make a report anonymously?

Yes you can. However, we would encourage you to identify yourself when making a report because this will assist us with investigating the report and protecting you in the long run. Your identity and the information you provide will be treated with the highest levels of confidentiality and disclosed strictly on a need-to-know basis.

If you make a report anonymously, we will review it. We cannot guarantee ongoing anonymity as the nature of the issue may, without fault on our part, subsequently naturally reveal the identities of people involved. This could happen, for example, if the case is particularly unique.

For the majority of reports that have been submitted anonymously, we are not able to decipher the identity of the reporter. However, if total anonymity is requested, it is important to note that successful investigation and resolution of the matter may depend on the amount of information shared and ongoing interaction. There are limits on the firm's ability to investigate and resolve issues in circumstances in which the caller chooses to remain anonymous.

Ultimately, we ask that you provide us with as much detail as you believe to be necessary to permit us to investigate the reported matter.

9. If I submit a report, is my identity protected?

If you decide to submit your report anonymously, please see point 8 above.

If you decide to submit your name when making a report, your identity will be treated with the highest levels of confidentiality and will only be shared with people on a strictly need-to-know basis either to investigate the report or if required by law. However, we cannot guarantee that the wrongdoer will not become aware of your identity as part of the investigation process, as the nature of the issue may, without direct disclosure by us, subsequently naturally reveal the identities of people involved. This could happen, for example but not limited to, if the case is particularly unique, and/or where we may be required to disclose your identity if you acted maliciously or deliberately abused the process, the accused raises a claim, or we must disclose your identity by law.

10. What personal data do you collect and why?

This may be:

- your name and relationship to PwC;
- identification details, function, contact details, behaviour, and other personal data of the person(s) involved in the reported concern; and

We may also use the personal data if necessary as part of related legal proceedings and to comply with our legal obligations (we may be required by law to report certain matters to appropriate external authorities).

11. Do not submit sensitive personal data unless it's necessary and relevant

We do not require submission of sensitive personal data through PwC Ethics Helpline. Examples of this are race or ethnic origin, religious or other beliefs, political opinions, criminal record, physical or mental health, trade union membership, genetic or biometric data (when used to uniquely identify someone), and sexual life or orientation. However, we might receive sensitive personal data because you volunteer this as part of a report.
